Celebrating the Day Non-Aryan Contract Marriage Picking Up $30,000,000 for Schools

By ARTHUR BRISBANE

(Copyright, 1936, by King Features Syndicate, Inc., International copyright and all other rights reserved.)

Yesterday, Thanksgiving Day, various nations in Europe continued, feverishly, preparing to butcher each other with wholesale efficiency never before dreamed of in man's murderous history.

Spaniards were still killing their fellow Spaniards in a deadly civil war, based partly on religious hatred, with barbarous Moors that enjoy killing brought across the Mediterranean to help.

President Roosevelt is expected to tell the people of South America that this country intends to get mixed up in no more wars of Europe, which is good news. What we need now is such strength in the air as would make even the most ruthless nation fear to attack the United States.

The great contract bridge competition ends and the Harold Vanderbilt cup goes to four players, called the Kaplan team —Phil Abramson, Fred Kaplan, Harry Fishbein and Irving Epstein. Mr. Vanderbilt, on hand to present his cup, might telephone Chancellor Hitler that you do not have to be an "Aryan" to understand bridge.

Business is picking up, and that includes marriage, most important. Chicago University says 750,000 fewer weddings have taken place during the six depressing years than would have occurred in normal times. Hence the loss of about one million American babies that should have been born. Seven hundred and fifty thousand young couples have missed, among them, more than three million years of marriage bliss.

The tide turned in 1935 with 1,327,000 marriages, highest total in our history. Divorces have also picked up, unfortunately; they fell off forty thousand a year in the depression, and last year reached a new high, about 218,000 divorces.

New York City's board approves unanimously a $20,000,000 appropriation for new public schools in 1937. This, in addition to sums previously appropriated. Thirty million dollars for new schools in one year represents a change from days when public education was denounced on the ground that it might "make the lower classes discontented with their lot." It does just that, fortunately.

The only way to improve anybody's "lot" is to make him intelligently discontented with it.

The text of the agreement between Berlin and Tokyo, now public, is, on the surface, not warlike. Each government promises to tell the other all it knows about wicked conspiracies of Communists, anywhere on earth. The pact is declared aimed, not at Russia, but at the "Communist International," known as the "Comintern." Russia, however, is and owns that Comintern.

Other nations are invited to join in discouraging Communism and its "interference with the international affairs of other nations."

The pact starts off with a deplorable split infinitive, fault of the English translator.

Mr. Green's and Mr. Lewis' union labor organizations indicate that their differences may be settled, which is good news. Organized labor should present a united front against too short pay and long hours.

The prosperity of the nation depends on how much the workers have to spend.

After the usual "Russian confession," a German engineer was sentenced to death in Russia, for sabotage. Germany raged and roared; Stalin changed the German's sentence to ten years in prison. The Russian dictator knows the importance of public opinion, outside of Russia, and means to have war only when HE wants it, not when somebody else wants it. Also, he shows confidence in his own strength. Some other dictators would not draw back down, for fear of trouble at home.

Harilal Gandhi, eldest son of Mahatma Gandhi, left his father's Hindu faith to become a Mohammedan, and now returns to the Hindu religion, saying, "Hinduism is in no wise inferior to other faiths." He may be right, although certain features of religion in India, tolerated to gratify the more ignorant and brutal, such as cutting the throats of innumerable goats

UNITE WORLD FOR PEACE, ROOSEVELT PLEA IN RIO

PRESIDENT BIDS BRAZIL SHUN WAR

Rio de Janeiro, Nov. 27 (AP) — President Roosevelt of the United States told a joint Brazilian congress session today:

"We cannot countenance aggression from wheresoever it may come."

Pausing in his voyage of inter-American peace, he asserted next week's Buenos Aires conference was an opportunity to banish war from the New World, stated the instruments of peace must be fortified and declared "there is no American conflict that cannot be settled by orderly and peaceful means."

He asserted the Inter-American Congress, opening next week provided an opportunity to "banish war from the New World and dedicate it to peace."

BY COMMON NEEDS

"It is unthinkable to me," Roosevelt told the congressional session, "that in this time of world-wide apprehension we should fail to seize the opportunity to meet what is a heavy responsibility.

"This is no time to hesitate. We must be guided by a serene and

Boettiger Is Named Publisher

W. R. Hearst Makes Appointment to Seattle Post

Special to Boston Evening American

New York, Nov. 27—Appointment of John Boettiger as publisher of the Seattle Post-Intelligencer has been announced by William Randolph Hearst.

The announcement followed immediately upon the settlement Wednesday night of the strike which had forced the Post-Intelligencer to cease publication for a period of more than three months.

Mr. Boettiger, former Chicago and Washington newspaper man, will leave New York as soon as his affairs here are arranged, and with Mrs. Boettiger will proceed directly to Seattle.

In announcing the appointment, Mr. Hearst said:

"Mr. Boettiger will have absolute freedom in directing the editorial and business policies of the Post-Intelligencer. His only directive is to make it the best newspaper in Seattle.

"He brings to his task a long experience as an active newspaperman, and is thus well fitted

SHEEHAN RETAINED AS POLICE RAIDER

POLICE AND POLITICS

Swift moving developments in the Curley-Hurley and Timilty-McSweeney news included the following highlights:

Police Commissioner Timilty orders Superintendent Fallon to be "boss." Works on a shakeup of his detective bureau. Makes first appointment. Captain Sheehan stays as raider.

Governor-elect Charles F. Hurley spikes report that he will abolish commissioner's job. Plans more powers for Superintendent Fallon.

McSweeney plans remain secret. Political observers doubt he will run for mayor.

Captain Sheehan personally makes his first arrest under new regime after stirring chase on foot.

Governor Curley leaves for Miami. Job-holders uneasy.

Police Commissioner Joseph F. Timilty today told Superintendent Edward W. Fallon to assume full authority as boss of the police department and to retain Captain James T. Sheehan as special crime raider.

Captain Sheehan, as acting inspector of divisions, shortly afterward belied published reports that the new commissioner was making him take a back seat, by leading his special squad to another arrest in the anti-gambling drive.

Commissioner Timilty, who, according to authoritative reports is going to shake up the detective bureau drastically, has the complete approval of Governor-elect Charles F. Hurley in his restoration of full power to Superintendent Fallon.

Governor-elect Hurley declares he is going to ask the legislature to give the Boston superintendent broader powers and Hurley spoke in glowing terms of Fallon's record and ability.

SCORES CARROLL TALK

It is understood Hurley also is in favor of a shakeup in the detective force, officially known as the Bureau of Criminal Investigation.

Commissioner Timilty, appointed by Commissioner Eugene M. McSweeney's place by Governor Curley, pounded on his desk as he

Plate Glass Kills Man in Lynn

One man was killed and another seriously injured today when a large crated piece of plate glass fell on them as they were unloading it on Andrew street, Lynn.

Lohan W. Steeves, 44, married, of 72 Maple street, Lynn, was pronounced dead on arrival at Lynn Hospital. Lea Malloy, 42, of 299 Walnut street, Lynn, was cut about the legs.

Japan Recognizes Italy in Ethiopia

Tokyo, Nov. 27 (INS)—An agreement has been reached for Japanese recognition of an Italian rule in Ethiopia in exchange for Italian recognition of Manchukuo, it was semi-officially announced today.

The semi-official spokesman denied reports Italy is already seeking participation in the German-Japanese pact against Communism.

"Italy's delicate relations with Great Britain and Russia make Italian participation inadvisable at the moment," he said.

commented forcefully on a published statement ascribed to Senator Edward Carroll about the former police strikers.

Carroll was quoted as saying that the striking policemen would be restored to duty.

"Senator Carroll or nobody else at the State House, in this department or anywhere in the city, is speaking for me," said Timilty. "I haven't decided on that yet."

He invited newspapermen to his office where he sat amid a profusion of floral tributes, with Superintendent Fallon beside him.

"As superintendent, you are in charge of the department, and I am giving you a free hand," he said to Fallon. "I think Captain Sheehan should be left in his new position for the time being anyway.

WANTS MORE PATROLMEN

"I am going to make some changes in my own official staff of secretaries and stenographers.

"I am going to try to get funds from the city for remodeling the shortage of men in this department. We are 241 men short.

"It looks like a busy day for me and I'm starting right away."

Timothy J. Manning, one of the secretaries, who has a $4,000 job, is expected to be retained as he has charge of the listing of the voters, which requires considerable experience.

The other secretaries are Howard T. Woodlock, at $3500; Andrew J. Gorey, $2000 and Augustine Gill, $3000.

The commissioner may also appoint a legal adviser, as he is empowered to do under the law. Commissioner McSweeney relied for his advice on a relative, Attorney Thomas H. Mahoney.

FLOWERS BANK OFFICE

Many telegrams, as well as 20 baskets of flowers, testified to the high regard in which Major Timilty is held by his friends.

Governor-elect Hurley smiled he had made up his mind to remove Major Timilty as soon as he becomes governor. He will give the new commissioner a chance to show what he can do.

In spite of reports that the governor-elect plans to ask the legislature to abolish the commissionership, the Boston Evening American learned he has no such intention. He will ask the legislature to increase the powers of the superintendent.

Speculation on former Commissioner McSweeney's plans was a topic of animated discussion today in political circles. Leaders doubt that he will run for mayor, although some of his friends are urging him on.

CURLEY OFF TO MIAMI

Governor Curley leaving this noon for Miami, defended his appointment of Timilty, scoffed at Mayor Mansfield's denunciation, and cited the new commissioner's record in the Federal service as proof of his experience.

Governor-elect Hurley, asked as to his stand on the switch of commissioners, said:

"My primary interest in the present situation is that the people of Boston get adequate police protection and that crime is kept at a minimum.

"I only demand of any department head will be that he fulfill the duties of his post conscientiously and with the best interests of the public.

"So long as any state official does that, he need not fear interference from the governor's office while I am there.

CONFIDENCE IN FALLON

"I have kept myself informed concerning the activities of the Boston police department, and I am thoroughly familiar with the duties of the superintendent.

"I am confident that Superintendent Fallon is an honest, competent and fearless police official who has worked his way up from the ranks. I intend to confer with him when I take over the office of Governor, and I will tell him that I hold him directly responsible for the type of police protection given the people of Boston."

Hurley said he had spent considerable time studying the Boston department with a view to recommending changes in his inaugural address to the Legislature.

It was learned by the Boston Evening American that the bureau of criminal investigation would be reduced and reorganized immediately.

Commenting on such a move, Governor-elect Hurley to the American:

"I believe that department (Bureau of Criminal Investigation) is directly responsible for any crime situation which may be flourishing in Boston today."

"The Superintendent of Police, Edward W. Fallon, a man who has risen from the ranks, should be held responsible for the administration of the police department. I want it clearly understood that I have the utmost confidence in Superintendent Fallon's honesty and ability."

NO FAVORITES

Commissioner Timilty, in a three-hour informal interview, told reporters:

"The Boston police department will be free of favorites, 'Oliver Garretts' and snoopers. It will be in full charge of Superintendent Fallon.

"People say I am unfit to serve as police commissioner because of lack of training. My accusers fail to remember I have been director of personnel for the reserve department in New England for the past 15 years, with 2000 men under my supervision.

"I've handled bigger jobs than this. In the old days of prohibition I organized the first unit for prohibition enforcement in New England. Had McSweeney or Hultman, or any of the rest of them, had much experience when they took over the job?

"There is no question in my mind that I am fitted to be police commissioner. I am not trying to boast but merely pointing out that I have some qualifications, despite the knocking of critics."

In 1924 Commissioner Timilty was sent by the government to Honolulu to take over a drive against a huge smuggling ring. The whole ring was cleaned up.

"I am going to be a free agent and run the department as I see fit. As the governor told me the other evening: 'Run it and run it right.'"

REPLIES TO MAYOR

Governor Curley recalled that one of Mayor Mansfield's first acts as mayor was to remove McSweeney as fire commissioner and replace him with Edward F. McLaughlin.

"Mayor Mansfield's statement on the appointment of Major Timilty is ludicrous and incongruous," said the governor.

"The appointment of Major Timilty is not a political one in any sense of the word. Many people are not aware of the work he has been doing for the past 15 years as an employe of the Internal Revenue Department.

"His position with the internal revenue branch is analogous to that of a department of justice agent and because of this experience, he is exceptionally well qualified for his duties as head of the Boston police department.

"Most people have looked upon Major Timilty as a well-dressed and affable person, but they are not aware of the fact he was sent by the government to the Hawaiian islands to break up a dope and vice ring which flourished there.

"Completing that job successfully, he returned to New England to reorganize the law enforcement forces of the internal revenue department here. He is the best-equipped man ever appointed police commissioner."

Curley Guard Named Aide To Timilty

Major Joseph F. Timilty, new police commissioner, today appointed Patrolman Joseph O. Chalifoux, Jr., his aide and chauffeur. The job carries an additional annuity of $200.

Chalifoux has been guard to Francis Curley, youngest son of the governor, accompanying the boy to and from school, since the receipt of threats several months ago.

He replaces Patrolman Daniel Burns, who was able to Commissioner McSweeney. Burns, whom McSweeney planned to make a sergeant on Christmas, returns to regular duty at station 2, Milk street.

Bidding Goodbye to Gov. Curley

PAUL MAJOR TIMILTY

LIEUT-COL. DONNELLY FRANCIS MRS. DONNELLY GOVERNOR CURLEY LEO

Accompanied by his daughter, Mary, and her husband, Lieutenant-Colonel Edward C. Donnelly, second left, Governor Curley departed today off for the southland to treat a stubborn cold. On hand at the Back Bay station to bid farewell to the Governor and his party were his three sons, Paul, Francis and Leo, and the newly appointed Police Commissioner, Major Joseph F. Timilty.

BETTY ANN TIMILTY MRS. FRANK J. TIMILTY MAJOR TIMILTY

Major Joseph Timilty, Boston's new police commissioner was at his desk in police headquarters at 9 a. m. At 1 o'clock he left for his Beacon street, Hyde Park, home to have the Thanksgiving meal with members of his family. Mrs. Frank J. Timilty, a sister-in-law, is holding Betty Ann Timilty, a daughter of Walter I. Timilty, brother of the commissioner. The smiling commissioner is shown at right.

Governor Curley departed for the southland today, leaving a corps of anxious state jobholders worrying and wishing they could go along, too.

None, however, got close enough to the Governor to get any parting messages or requests before he boarded the noon train for Washington. He will spend tonight in the Capital, then entrain for Miami tomorrow.

With the Governor were his daughter, Mary, and her husband, Lieutenant-Colonel Edward C. Donnelly. They plan to be away at least a week, possibly a fortnight. Governor Curley's cold developed over the Governor has had for the last month.

But before he motored to the Back Bay railroad station the Governor stole away from his home to make one of his regular pilgrimages to the grave of his late wife.

At Old Calvary cemetery he placed a bouquet of yellow chrysanthemums on the graves where his wife and son, James, lie side by side. Then he knelt and prayed.

Sunday is the anniversary of Mrs. Curley's birthday. It is a date never forgotten by the governor, and since he will not be here then, he paid his tribute today.

There was quite a delegation at the railroad station to see the party entrained and while the Governor showed signs of the toll his heavy cold has taken, he said he was beginning to feel better already.

"I'm going to get in some golf and swimming at Miami," he said, "and I'm going to have a reserved seat in the solarium.

"If that Florida sun won't clear things up, we'll fly over to Havana and try a few samples of the Cuban climate. It's only a three-hour flying trip."

But whatever the Governor does, a week's absence means that another meeting of the executive council must pass without those jobs are in the balance knowing what's to be their fate. A majority of those are going to see their terms expire next Tuesday, too.

There are still nearly two-score important posts whose incumbents must be either reappointed, ousted, or held dangling for a few more weeks in that unpleasant position of being temporary "holdovers."

Probably as anxious about the situation as any of those who expect to have their official heads chopped off are those who are awaiting the reward of their labors in Governor Curley's political behalf.

Many feel that if they do not get those rewards now they may be figuratively as well as literally out in the cold by the time the new administration takes over.

SHEEHAN MAKES POOL ARREST

In a spectacular chase on foot along Columbus avenue, South End, Captain James T. Sheehan, acting inspector of divisions, and his anti-crime squad, today arrested an alleged number pool agent.

Jacob Cohen, 41, of Tremont street, South End, leaped from his automobile and ran when the squad stopped it, according to police.

He was followed from Yarmouth street and Columbus avenue to a store several blocks away, where police said, he dropped a package containing several hundred number pool slips.

When questioned, the officers said, Cohen declared he thought Captain Sheehan's "cleanup" campaign was directed only against horse race betting rooms.

McSweeney's Wife Proud

There may be wives who mourn and fret when their husbands lose their jobs, but Mrs. Eugene McSweeney is definitely not one.

She's proud of her husband, she said today at her home in Chilton road, West Roxbury, and even if he's no longer Boston's police commissioner it makes no difference to her or their family.

"He did his duty as he saw it and he is passing along to his children a wonderful heritage," Mrs. McSweeney declared.

"Why, I'd rather be in Gene McSweeney's shoes today than in those of any man in Boston. For one thing, he's rich in friends.

"I wish you could have seen the able-bodied men who came to our home yesterday to see Gene.

"Some of them actually broke down when they were talking about his removal. Men don't do that unless they are sincerely touched."

Mills, 72, Revere Realty Man Dies

Aiden A. Mills, 72, widely known realtor and leader in the development of the Point of Pines residential section, died today at his home, 695 Boulevard, Revere, after a prolonged illness.

Rare Illness Kills Providence Boy

Providence, Nov. 27—Stricken with a rare type of leukemia, his illness complicated by a throat infection, Francis Moriarty, 23-year-old sophomore at Providence College, died in St. Joseph's hospital at noon today, after a week's struggle against the great blood disease.

Seven transfusions, most of them by fellow students, were given in the fight to have his life.

At his death bed were his father, Joseph Moriarty, official of the International Seamen's Union, his mother and a brother and sister.

Meet the Commissioner:

Timilty Brummel And Teetotaler

By JAMES F. McENANEY

Twelve years ago today Major Joseph F. Timilty, at that time supervisor of internal revenue in Boston, told newspapermen upon his return from Hawaii: "Hawaii is a paradise of bootleggers."

Today Timilty, of the Hyde Park Timiltys, newly appointed police commissioner, sees another "paradise"—bootleggers, number pool operators, gunmen, gangsters, vice merchants and others of their type —and it's right here in Boston.

40 YEARS OLD

Interviewed at his Hyde Park home, bachelor Timilty told a Boston Evening American reporter his first move would be "to clean the city of all vice and the vultures behind the scenes."

Timilty, born 40 years ago October 17, has always been interested in politics and public life, no doubt inheriting his leaning from his father, State Senator James P. Timilty, who served more successive terms in the State Senate than anyone in Massachusetts until his death in 1923.

James P. Timilty, known as "Diamond Jim" because of his fondness for flashing large diamonds, got his son a job as a page in the House of Representatives in Washington.

FRIEND OF CURLEY

While in Washington, Timilty went to Georgetown University night school. He previously was graduated from Dudley street grammar school and Boston English high school.

He lives in a modest old-fashioned house at 120 Beacon street, Hyde Park.

A huge police dog, whose bark is much worse than its bite, greets all callers.

The handsome, well-groomed policeman, regarded by many prominent local tailors as one of Boston's best dressed men, lives in Hyde Park with his brothers, Harry and Jim.

Timilty's friendship with Governor Curley dates back to the days when he was a page and Curley was in Washington, a Congressman from the Bay State. Curley and Timilty's father were close friends.

Major Timilty, an ensign during the World War who holds a reserve commission in the navy, was military aide to Governor Curley during the past two years.

COLLEGE ATHLETE

The personable Timilty, with black gray-streaked hair and round, pink face, stands more than six feet tall and weighs 212 pounds.

He played football, basketball and baseball at Georgetown, starring in the outfield for the "Hoyas" for three seasons. And he still manages to stay in athletic condition although much heavier than in college days.

Golf, more than anything else, helps him to keep in trim. And the major is not a bad golfer at all.

Dressed in dark gray, pencil-striped pants and a rich maroon dressing gown, Timilty greeted many friends on the holiday, including Paul and Leo Curley. Floral pieces and congratulatory messages poured in on him all day.

Timilty has never drunk intoxicating liquors or smoked, and Curley describes him as the "state's most eligible bachelor."

In response to queries as to a girl friend Timilty replied:

"There is no such creature."

Timilty grinned as he told highlights of his career, how he worked in every state in the union for the government internal revenue department.

In 1928 he was in Honolulu, assigned to break up an international dope ring.

Timilty, the records show, produced the evidence which led to the finish of the gang, but he nearly lost his life in the raid which climaxed the crusade.

A fellow investigator was shot and killed. Four shots were fired at Timilty.

"Luckily the boys were a little off that day," joked Timilty. "All four shots missed their rather large target."

American Scores 3-Weeks' 'Scoop' On Ouster of McSweeney

NEWS BEFORE IT'S HISTORY IN BOSTON'S "BIG STORY"

'BEAT' TOWN ON TIMILTY NAMING

The flash came at 6:50 p. m. Wednesday. Two minutes later the presses were rolling. Three minutes later the papers were on the street.

In four words the Boston Evening American headlines told the story:

McSWEENEY FIRED; TIMILTY NAMED

First on the street with the big news Wednesday night was a feat of no small consequence.

This paper was the only afternoon paper to carry the news.

The story of the actual ousting of Eugene M. McSweeney and the appointment of a new police commissioner was Boston's biggest news in many days. Just as usual, was the Boston Evening American.

Behind that story, however, is a bigger story—the story of one of the biggest news beats of the year.

For the Boston Evening American on November 6 gave its readers the news that Governor James M. Curley intended to oust McSweeney.

They Denied It

The governor denied it.
McSweeney denied it.
Every other newspaper in Boston denied it.

Accurate, as well as first—as usual, was The American.

Boston Evening American readers have known for a year many of the reasons between the governor and Mr. McSweeney since last spring.

It was on April 30 last that this paper carried on its front page, under headlines consistent with the significance of the situation, the story that then Commissioner McSweeney and Mayor Mansfield had secretly met at City Hall and agreed that none of the police striken of 1919 were to be restored to duty on the force.

Governor Curley favored reinstatement of such of those men as were fit and able for duty. Commissioner McSweeney was Governor Curley's appointee and Mayor Mansfield was the governor's political enemy.

Shadow Cast

So this story had an unusual significance—was, in fact, the shadow cast by the coming event.

The Boston Evening American headlined it for its story.

It was denied.

Then the Boston Post quoted Mr. McSweeney as saying that the story was "wrecked and absolutely false," and "there never had been any position taken by me such as stated in the Boston American."

The Boston American, sure of its facts, stuck to its guns, declined to print a retraction, followed up the development.

As the weeks passed the truth of this paper's story became obvious to close observers. Some of the strikers of 1919 was restored to the force by Mr. McSweeney under the enabling legislation in which Governor Curley had a hand, and an open breach developed between the governor and his police commissioner.

In September the Boston Evening American printed the exclusive story of the quarrel between Mr. McSweeney and the governor at the latter's home and forecast the possible removal of Mr. McSweeney.

Boston other newspapers published the story, tossed the ball into the bleachers.

Called "Fake"

In close touch with every inside development, the Boston Evening American on Friday, November 6 stated without qualification that Governor Curley would remove Mr. McSweeney from the police commissionership. Two days later headlines in the American on that date,

"M'SWEENEY TO BE OUSTED IN CURLEY JOBS SHAKEUP"

So today's award o fa bouquet for achievement-in-error goes to the Boston Traveler.

The story created a sensation.

Immediate denials were printed by the Herald, Traveler, Post, Globe and Transcript.

The Boston Traveler even went beyond the news to assail the Boston Evening American's story in an editorial headed, "Governor Curley Exposes a Fake." This editorial outraged Mr. McSweeney, declared the story he would removed "a fake."

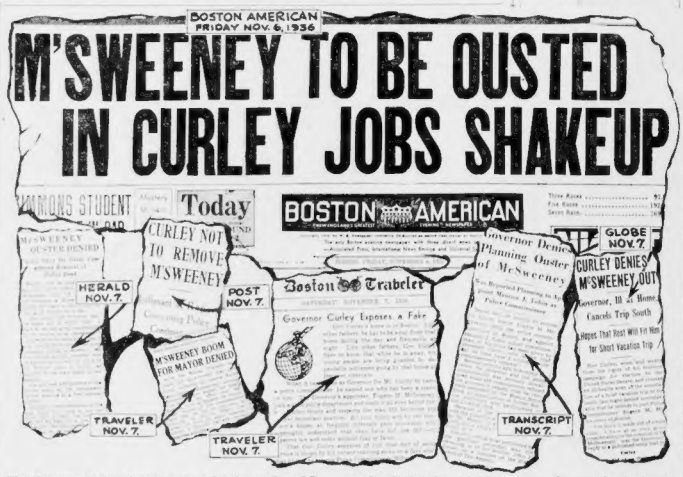
And not content with being so grievously in error, the Boston Traveler of the same date and in its news columns took pride in being wrong . . . "After the Boston Traveler had ignored the false report that Governor Curley intended to remove Police Commissioner McSweeney . . ."

Its failure to join the INDY SAFE.

Its support of Mr. McSweeney requires no excuse, but for so flagrantly misleading its readers as to the actual facts there is no excuse except ignorance of the facts. Will the guilty so plead?

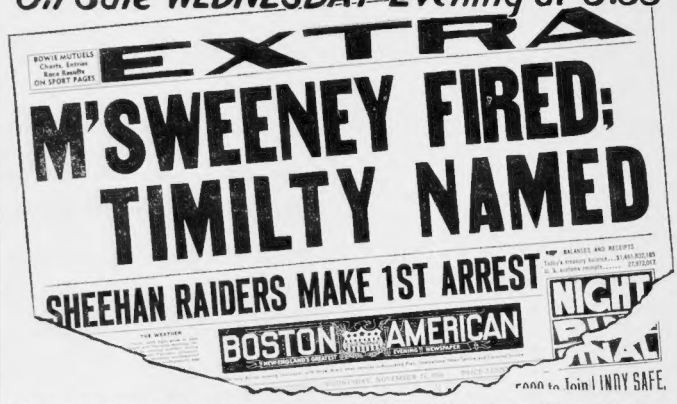
The removal of Police Commissioner McSweeney was a complete beat for the Boston Evening American from the hour when it was freestanding last spring until the hour of its actual happening last Wednesday night.

It was another instance of good reporting of exclusive news—obtainable every day in the Boston Evening American.



That Governor Curley planned to move for the ousting of Police Commissioner Eugene M. McSweeney was told in the Boston Evening American, November 6. The other Boston papers were so badly "beaten" in a newspaper sense, on November 6, that they tried to cover up the next day by branding the story as a "fake." The readers of the Boston Evening American always get the big news first.

On Sale WEDNESDAY Evening at 6:55



Then to make a complete beat of this exclusive story—the Boston Evening American was the only afternoon paper to bring to the Boston people the story of the actual removal of McSweeney as police commissioner and the appointment of Major Joseph F. Timilty, to succeed him, on Wednesday evening. This Boston American Night Pink Final Extra was sold on the street a few minutes before 7 o'clock Wednesday evening.

YOUNG Roosevelt BETTER

MOTHER FLIES BACK TO N. Y.

Assured that her son, Franklin D. Roosevelt, Jr., was not seriously ill at Massachusetts General Hospital with sinus trouble, Mrs. Roosevelt today left East Boston Airport on the 10:15 plane for New York.

Mrs. Roosevelt arrived here to visit her son Wednesday. She spent Thanksgiving Day at his bedside. Her hurried trip here at first caused alarm as to her son's condition.

"He's really not sick," the First Lady told the Boston Evening American. "He's just undergoing observation for his sinus and the only thing he's suffering from is the discomfort of being in a hospital. He'll be out in a day or two."

Blond Ethel du Pont was at first expected in Boston today to be at the bedside of her future husband.

Later, at her home in Wilmington, Del., it was reported Ethel was "still sleeping" and planned no trip to the side of her fiance.

SENT TO HOSPITAL

The young Harvard student was ordered to the hospital Wednesday for observation by Dr. Harvey Cushing, father-in-law of his brother, James Roosevelt.

STAYS IN BROOKLINE

Mrs. Roosevelt stayed at the Walnut street, Brookline, home of Henry Cushing, brother-in-law of her son, James.

She said she had no plans other than her trip to New York when she left today.

At the home of the President in Hyde Park, N. Y., John Roosevelt, a younger son and the only member of the immediate family home for Thanksgiving, told reporters his brother's condition was "not at all serious."

"His sinus needs watching, that's all," the 20-year-old Harvard student said.

After visiting her son, Franklin, Jr., at the Massachusetts General Hospital, and being assured his condition was not serious, Mrs. Roosevelt went today to New York. She is photographed just before she stepped into a plane at the Boston airport.

World's Best Literature

Book Treasures Offered Readers

Three days from now, the Boston Evening American is going to unlock for its readers the world's greatest treasure trove of literature.

There will be a small cost. After all, no newspaper could make a free and clear gift of such a set of books as is proposed. This is no contest.

Only a special arrangement with a firm of publishers makes this possible. But the advantage is open to all who subscribe to or buy this newspaper. And to them alone.

How many times have you promised yourself that, even if you haven't had the opportunity to read these books, your children wouldn't be so deprived?

And how many times have you counted the cost—in dollars and cents, as we all must do—only to put off the actual purchase?

This newspaper, not to be philanthropic, not to be playing Santa Claus, or anything like that, is now making it possible for you to do what you have always wanted to do.

For 29 cents each and coupons clipped from your Boston Evening American next week, you may secure Cooper's Fenimore Cooper's immortal volume of THE LAST OF THE MOHICANS.

The following week you may clip six coupons and with 29 cents you may secure for your library Thackeray's VANITY FAIR.

There are 20 volumes in all. And all are available to readers of the Boston Evening American at only a small fraction of the cost that they would have to expend if they were to buy in the open market.

Each week a new book, bound especially for the readers of this newspaper, will be waiting for the claimants.

Benjamin Franklin's Autobiography and Poor Richard's Almanac are on the list. So, too, are Shakespeare's plays and Dumas' Count of Monte Cristo.

Nathaniel Hawthorne's Scarlet Letter is waiting; Sir Walter Scott's Ivanhoe.

Included in the schedule are famed authors like Poe, Goldsmith, Lew Wallace, Stevenson, Emerson, Ringsley, Collins, Bulwer-Lytton, Melville, De Cervantes and Pizarro.

Their best works are to be reprinted in a special edition, with fine clothbinding, with clear, bold type and lasting paper pages.

There isn't any catch in this.

It is only a question of whether you want to avail yourself of a chance of a lifetime.

First, you have to have coupons clipped from the series published next week in the Boston Evening American. Then, with a nominal 29 cents, you may secure the first volume.

Secondly, coupons clipped from the second series, with the fee, will secure the next book. And so on . . .

Watch for the more complete announcement in the Boston Sunday Advertiser. Then watch for the first coupon in the Boston Evening American on Monday, November 30.

Despite acknowledgment of large contributions, Red Cross officials today revealed the present drive was far from the goal and that additional co-operation is still needed.

A plea that the Red Cross be given special attention during the holiday season was made by Henry Parkman, Jr., chairman of the drive.

Man Dances To Death in S. Acton

South Acton, Nov. 27—A medical examiner's report revealed today that Maurice Griffin, 63-year-old Roxbury farmer, actually "danced to death" here last night.

Griffin, who collapsed in the arms of his wife, with whom he was dancing in Town Hall, died of a heart attack, probably induced by over-exertion and acute indigestion, Medical Examiner H. M. Walcott said.

CABINET SEEKS BRITISH WAY TO AVOID WAR

BULLETIN

Lisbon, Nov. 27 (INS)—The newspaper Diario de Lisbon today reported the Spanish Insurgent general staff had decided to abandon all forward positions around and in Madrid and concentrate on severing all capital communications.

Barcelona, Nov. 27 (INS)—Two thousand anti-Fascist Frenchmen were enroute to the Spanish civil war front today to fight against the rebel forces. They arrived here late last night.

London, Nov. 27 (INS)—Gravely concerned over recent events in the Spanish Civil War, Prime Minister Stanley Baldwin called a sudden emergency meeting of his Cabinet today and debated with his ministers means of keeping Britain from being dragged into a dangerous crisis.

The Cabinet met for a full hour in the Prime Minister's room in the House of Commons, and was understood to have reviewed the Spanish situation in its entirety, including consideration of the question of granting belligerent rights to the rebels.

Great secrecy enshrouded the meeting but its importance was apparent. The ministers were summoned unexpectedly. Minister of Labor Brown having to travel all night from Liverpool, where he had been scheduled to attend a civic function today. Other ministers likewise were compelled to cancel previous engagements.

200,000 Flee Pell Mell From War-Torn Madrid

Madrid, Nov. 27 (UP)—A party of 65 American refugees, with 200,000 other men, women, and children leaving Madrid in a mass evacuation, arrived in Valencia today while the embattled Spanish forces intensified their death struggle for possession of the capital.

Starting at dawn and increasing by the hour, the great human flood poured out of the city to seek safety on the eastern seaboard.

They crowded into every available vehicle, carrying their personal effects with them, and taxed transportation facilities to the utmost.

Pressed into service were 239 trains, 20,674 automobiles and 2566 buses.

Today came word that the first bus load of Americans had reached Valencia and a second bus load was forced to stop overnight at nearby Albacete, where their bus broke down. They will continue to Valencia today.

"We'll Rout the Rebels by Christmas," Say Reds

Madrid, Nov. 27 (AP) — General Kleber, Socialist commander of the 11th international brigade, declared today government forces "will drive the Insurgents from the gates of Madrid by Christmas."

"We are rapidly forging an army out of the excellent militia material at hand," he said in his headquarters in the capital's most exclusive golf clubhouse.

He predicted opposing forces soon would clash in a "decisive" battle which would decide the fate of Madrid.

Drives Car 2 Miles, It Costs Him $100

Ware, Nov. 27 (AP)—That it costs more to run some automobiles than others seems to be well established, but Frank H. Maheux of Enfield set a record here today when he paid $100 after operating his car a bare two miles.

It was a little matter on insurance that ran up the cost. State Trooper J. H. Fallon noted absence of registration plates as Maheux was driving from the garage where he works to his home. Investigation showed also lack of license and insurance.

Judge William Nolen was willing to forego the penalty for two of the offenses, but bore down hard on the insurance.

At that rate, Maheux commented, it would be about as cheap to charter a special train.

Nazis Ban Critics of Art, Books

By PIERRE J. HUSS

Berlin, Nov. 27 (INS)—A decree forbidding criticism against literature, music, motion picture films, arts and the theater in Germany was announced today by Dr. Joseph Goebbels, Reich propaganda minister, in a speech before the German cultural chamber delivered in the presence of Chancellor Adolf Hitler.

Critics, Goebbels said, henceforth must merely review and describe subjects which they discuss, but must not resort to adverse criticism.

The propaganda minister claimed former political critics had "retaliated into the artistic field," and were camouflaging political barbs under the guise of "so-called cultural criticism."

Explaining the necessity of the decree, Goebbels referred to instances in which youths of 23 severely ranged world-famous artists.

Thornton Spurns Brewery's Office

Providence, Nov. 27—His election to the presidency of the Holden Swing Company, Inc., of Warren, to succeed Edward F. Field, Revere dog racing man, was initiated today by James C. Thornton, brother-in-law of Governor-elect Robert E. Quinn and for a state racing commissioner.

Thornton declared his election "entirely without my consent." Harry Prince of Revere is treasurer and Hyman Abrams of Chelsea a member of the board of directors, according to records of the division of inlaxicating beverages.

HUNT WARBURTON GUN

Coroner Refuses to Close Probe

Doylestown, Pa., Nov. 27 (AP)—Montgomery County Coroner W. J. Rushong refused today to issue a death certificate in the hunting accident death of Barclay H. Warburton, Jr., until his shotgun is recovered.

Warburton, 36-year-old grandson of the late John Wanamaker, died yesterday in Abington Hospital, two hours after the accident.

Rushong said he was convinced the death was accidental. Warburton's shotgun, he said, either had been overlooked after the accident or was stolen, but that he said he would have it to close the investigation. It was valued at $400.

Warburton, shortly before he died said he slipped while climbing a fence on his 94-acre farm and the shotgun discharged. The full load entered his abdomen.

He crawled nearly a quarter-mile in white 20° feet of his home where a butler heard his groans.

Basket Fund

Chance for All to Play Santa

By THE CHRISTMAS BASKET FUND EDITOR

Last Christmas wasn't a very merry one for a Quinfamily of seven, but this year there are six in the family and their prospect for Christmas Day is even more cheerless than last year's.

The husband and father of the family deserted his wife and five children five months ago, the mother of the destitute family wrote the Christmas Basket Fund editor of the Boston Evening American and Sunday Advertiser. Her appeal follows:

"Please send me a Christmas Basket. My husband deserted me and my five children five months ago and we are on the welfare and I am sick.

"I am supposed to have an operation, but I don't know what to do as my parents are not living and I have no relatives to help me. We need some blankets.

Typical Plea

"I am heart broken, and am praying that my husband will come back to us, for the children's sake. Please don't forget us at Christmas time."

This plea is typical of those reaching the desk of the Basket Fund editor every day since the Boston American's 24th annual campaign began.

Further down in this message to the loyal Santa Claus of Greater Boston are stories of destitution and hopelessness.

Today is the day after Thanksgiving and for us only have to worry about cases of indigestion and dyspepsia and how to make the rest of the turkey palatable—if any of it's left. The problem of those for whom it is much more acute.

There is less than a month to Christmas Day. Many families have been handed a bouquet of coal and still were able to give thanks for something. Even the children.

But on Christmas day there must be some evidence of something good to eat and taut in the face of the volunteer Santa Claus must . . . to provide a Santa Claus.

Being a volunteer Santa Claus is very much like being a newsboy a day and no matter how small the final total is will provide a measure of happiness for some family.

That is why the Basket Fund editor is encouraged by the forms of sub-Basket Fund groups in schools, offices and factories in Greater Boston.

In some schools, we learn, the teachers are collecting a penny a day from their pupils. In offices and factories employees are contributing a nickel, one is quarter a day.

They are investing in the joy of the city's poor on what will be their happiest day of the Basket Fund quarter hoping.

But there's less than a month to go and the appeal of the unfortunate continue to pour into the Basket Fund headquarters.

Letters like this from the oldest boy in an Arlington family of nine motherless children:

Nine Children

"I am writing you to let you know there are nine motherless children who would appreciate a Christmas basket. My mother died last year and left six boys and three girls, ages two to sixteen.

"My father works off and on, and what little he makes is just enough for food. Two of the girls are sick and they have to stay home from school.

"We have to have a woman to take care of the children and do all the necessary work around the house, but she doesn't come on Sunday and, as I am the oldest, I have to do the work and do the cooking for the family, and lots of times I don't know what to cook as there isn't much.

"I know the children will appreciate a basket, so please don't forget them."

And this is the appeal of a fisherman's daughter of South Boston, one of a family of five children left motherless:

"I am writing you in the hopes that you will answer my plea. My father is a fisherman and makes very little money and sometimes nothing at all.

"My mother is deceased, and my four brothers and sisters are under the care of my maiden aunt.

"My aunt is very worried as we don't know where our Christmas dinner is coming from.

"I am taking the liberty of writing, without her knowledge, in the hope that you will heed my pleas.

"I have a sister who is in the hospital with a nervous trouble. She is coming home for Christmas. Won't you please help make it as cheerful as possible for her?"

One of the Basket Fund's first heavy investors in the Christmas Day of Greater Boston's poor is Benny Ginsburg, impresario of the Cub Playhair on Broadway.

For the dinner, two hours of star-studded entertainment and two hours of dancing until 2 a. m., on Sunday night, December 6, the complete "charge" will be $2.50.

RKO Star Due

Already Maestro Ginsburg has leased the sparkling presence of Evelyn Poe, one of the O. K. contraltos of RKO's entertainment empire, and a radio and screen figure. She was featured in the musical comedies, "Rhythm Man" and "Here Comes the Band."

For reservations for the Basket Fund's benefit party at the Cub Playhair call LIBerty 0700.

The Basket Fund is, of course, primarily for needy families, but deserving case is barred.

Applications may be made with the Christmas Basket Fund editor at 224 Devonshire street, a few doors from Franklin street, downtown.

Donations will be taken there, or may be mailed to the Christmas Basket Fund at 5 Winthrop square, Boston.

Hospital Orderly Is Found Dead

Arthur Hosier, 21, orderly at the Massachusetts General Hospital, was found dead today in his gas-filled room in South Russell street, West End.

Efforts of police and Dr. William Rose of Haymarket Relief Hospital failed to resuscitate him.

Police said they found a note addressed to his mother, Mrs. Harvey R. Edwards, of Danvers.

Needy Only May Apply

In order that Christmas Baskets may go only to deserving and needy families, each application must be approved by a priest, a minister, a rabbi or charitable organization. If you wish to apply for a basket, therefore, get the signature of one of these persons.

A special effort to reach needy families not receiving city aid is requested.

HAPPY RELIEF FROM PAINFUL BACKACHE

Caused by Tired Kidneys

Many of those gnawing, nagging, painful backache people suffer from nervousness are often caused by tired kidneys—and may be relieved when treated as they need.

The kidneys are Nature's chief way of taking excess acids and poisonous waste out of the blood. Most people pass about 3 pints a day or about 3 cups full.

If the 15 miles of kidney tubes and filters don't work well, poisonous waste matter stays in the blood. These poisons may start nagging backaches, rheumatic pains, lumbago, dizziness, loss of pep and energy, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness.

Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, used successfully by millions for over 40 years. They give happy relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from the blood. Get Doan's Pills.

HOUSING PLAN TO CALL FOR BANK LOAN

Washington, Nov. 27 (INS)—Backed by the administration, organized labor and municipal officials, Senator Robert F. Wagner of New York is drafting a $500,000,000 dollar slum clearance program for enactment by the incoming congress.

Among the far reaching objectives in the proposed legislation are:

1. To provide comfortable and sanitary apartments for more than a million men, women and children now herded in disease-breeding and outmoded city tenements.

2. To stimulate recovery of the building and allied industries and create work for thousands of unemployed workers in cities and mills.

Under Senator Wagner's plan the federal government's direct contribution to the program will be limited to 300 million dollars.

This will be distributed in the form of a 30 per cent grant toward the cost of each project.

The remaining 70 per cent of the cost, or 700 million dollars, will be underwritten by private capital, Wagner believes.

As an inducement for such investments by banks and other lending agencies, Wagner proposes to have the federal government guarantee loans on slum clearance projects up to 20 per cent of the cost.

With these federal grants, and guarantees, private capital would receive a mortgage on a project at a "risk" of only 50 per cent of its total cost. This should make it a welcome investment, Wagner is convinced.

Other features of his plan are predicated on like section additions to previous government attempts to eradicate slums.

Administration of the projects will be left entirely in the jurisdiction of city authorities.

The projects will not compete with private real estate developments. They will be limited strictly to slum areas.

Tenements are to be condemned by the cities and new model apartments will be constructed in these cities.

Death Takes No Holiday in Weymouth

(Picture from International News Photograph Service.)

Weeping, distraught, Louis A. Dillon of Weymouth, speaks unheard words to Joseph Delorey, 60, of Weymouth, unconscious on the ground. Delorey, allegedly struck by Dillon's car on Washington street, Weymouth, died later at Weymouth Hospital. Here a bystander attempts to comfort Dillon, supporting latter with one arm.

AUTO CRASHES KILL 3; 1936 TOTAL 211

Death at the wheel scored again today, adding three names to the grim list of persons killed this year in Greater Boston auto accidents.

The total—211.

Newest victim was Wesley Foran, 23, of Greenfield avenue, Mattapan. He was fatally injured when his machine sideswiped another and then crashed into a trolley car at Washington and Hayden streets, Roslindale.

WEYMOUTH MAN DIES

At Weymouth Hospital today Joseph Delory, 60, of Common street, Weymouth, died after being struck by an automobile on Washington street, Weymouth. Alleged operator was Louis A. Dillon of Georgia road, South Weymouth.

In South Boston, Lawrence Conley, 21, of Sagamore street, Dorchester, was killed by an automobile operated, police said, by John P. Morrissey of Cook street, Charlestown.

PAWTUCKET VICTIM

Another New England death occurred in Warwick, R.I., when Albert K. Creelman, 18, of Pawtucket was fatally injured in a two-car crash. His machine overturned.

The number of seriously injured in holiday highway accidents mounted into the hundreds. There were men and women victims in every Greater Boston hospital, with at least a dozen names on the danger list.

"Feminine Curves" Help In Winter

Columbus, O., Nov. 27 (AP)—If you shiver under a heavy overcoat, while your neighbor goes breezily about wearing only a light sweater, blame it on your metabolic counts.

Dr. J. H. J. Upham, president-elect of the American Medical Association, said today that most persons complaining that they suffer from cold weather had low metabolic counts.

"And usually the reverse is true—and the person who has a plus metabolism can endure cold with a minimum of protection," said Dr. Upham.

"Women, as a class, can get along with less clothing than men," explained Dr. Upham, "because, under the skin of girls and women, is a layer of fatty tissue which not only gives them a feminine roundness, but helps to keep the body heat in and the cold out. That explains why a woman can sit comfortably in a room wearing a light dress while her husband, clothed in a wool suit weighing two or three times as much is chilled."

The metabolic count, he explained, is a gauge on the activity of the human organs and blood circulation.

2d Inaugural Ball Is Declared Off

Atlantic City, N. J., Nov. 27 (AP)—President Roosevelt's second inauguration will be of "Jeffersonian simplicity"—without an inaugural ball.

The President, however, wishes to have as many people as possible in Washington January 20, because he believes a lot of people are in the mood to celebrate the election, said Colonel Edwin A. Halsey of Washington, secretary of the Senate, here working out details.

"One of the President's reasons for shying the ball is for the parade," Halsey said, "is the uncertainty of January weather, which may prove dangerous to the marchers from long exposure outdoors. The reviewing stands will be enclosed for the same reason.

Propaganda in Theater Assailed by Morris Gest

This is the second of two articles on Morris Gest, the Boston immigrant boy who became one of the world's most artistic theatrical producers. Gest is back in town for the opening of his latest play, "Lady Precious Stream," at the Plymouth Theater next Monday.

DEPICTS WORKER

Propaganda in the theater?

Ugh! says Morris Gest and his squirmy bit elastic face into a black scowl. Here he is, leading softly up and down the living room of his suite in the Touraine. Up and down, both arms tracing the air, his eyes lowering like coals in a fireplace.

"Propaganda, used in the sense of a vehicle to discuss a social or political document, is a legitimate thing if the playwright—or the producer—makes a decent effort to rationalize what he is trying to promulgate.

"Trouble is that we have too much propaganda in modern American plays which function on the silly idea that all you have to do is assume that the basic theme is true and go ahead with a lot of frenzied emotionalism to drive home the point."

"Trouble is that we have too much propaganda in modern American plays which function on the silly idea that all you have to do is assume that the basic theme is true and go ahead with a lot of frenzied emotionalism to drive home the point."

DEPICTS WORKER

With a quick twist of the body he bunches himself forward, stomped gloomily to and fro—

"Look, I'm a starving worker caught in the ceaseless mass of strife."

He glowered at his one-man audience. He sailed the flowers a "revolt against the social structure," and when he let his mouth sag he meant "I'm a laborer broken in spirit by economic tyrants" or, with a go flourish of the hand, "Now I'm free from the shackles of something or other, be it rigid divorce laws or 16th century morality."

"HOW STUPID"

Down into the deep rug went his foot with an emphatic plop.

"How abysmally stupid! What does that tell the audience? What does it do for them? Even vivid presentation of ugly realism is purposeless. There is only one legitimate, glorious propaganda: a faithful presentation of the true, the good, the beautiful."

Entertainment, as he points out, is an integral part of any branch of the theater, but he declares the over-emphasis of it in the "gentle arts."

Finally he sat down, heaved a long sigh.

"Me? I live for God, my art, and my country—America."

"Swing" Talk Goal Of N. Y. Professor

Development of an American language with "swing" to it was advocated today by Professor Walter Barnes of New York University at the opening session of the 25th annual convention of the National Council of English Teachers at the Hotel Statler.

American youth should be taught to speak a language with "personality" to it, "vigorous, folksy, racy and full-blooded," he declared.

Most people wilfully use the "vernacular" style of speech, but should be taught to use it more forcefully and with more charm, Professor Barnes declared.

Student work in Boston's English classes is being exhibited at the Abraham Lincoln school, Arlington and Fayette streets.

Surviving Siamese Twin Better, Happy

New York, Nov. 27 (AP)—Simplicio C. Gino, 28-yearold surviving Siamese twin, smiled broadly in Yorkville hospital today when surgeons told him that he had excellent chances of living as a healthy, normal man.

Parted from his brother, Lucio, when the latter died late Tuesday night from scarlet fever, Simplicio, hospital authorities said, had "a good night, with temperature, pulse and respiration good and the prognosis continues to be good."

General and Wife Face Court-Martial

Tokyo, Nov. 27 (AP)—Lieutenant-General Harukichi Oemura, former director of army ordinance, faced court martial today on bribe-taking charges, allegedly the result of his wife's extravagance.

Although it would be extraordinary, it was believed Gen. Busemura's wife would be tried with her husband.

Arms Get Half Of Japan Budget

Tokyo, Nov. 27 (AP)—Army and navy appropriations composed almost half of Japan's record-breaking 3,041,000,000 yen (about $870,000,000) budget for 1937-38, approved today by the cabinet. Less than five per cent was allotted to education.

and pouring out the blood as a sacrifice, are unpleasant.

There can be only one Ruler of the universe, therefore only one absolutely accurate religion. Some even think it possible that no religion has yet said the final word, in view of the recently discovered and unexpectedly large size of the universe.

Of two Siamese twins, Simplicio Godina and Lucio, Lucio is dead. Surgeons think they have saved the life of the survivor, cutting him away from his brother.

The unfortunate Simplicio, who remained for nearly an hour attached to his brother's dead body, loses a good income in addition to losing his brother. The two were well paid for vaudeville performances; no public interest in one single Siamese "twin."

On November 3, when President Roosevelt broke all records, something else unusual happened. Alphonse Roy, Democrat, and Arthur B. Jenks, Republican, running against each other for Congress, in New Hampshire, got exactly 51,679 votes each.

That has not happened since 1628. It should discourage indifference to public affairs, which causes many to say, "My vote would not make any difference."

MRS. SIMPSON GUARDED IN NOTE THREAT

London, Nov. 27 (UR)—Precautions were taken today to protect Mrs. Wallis Warfield Simpson from annoyance, following her receipt of a threatening letter from a crank in a big batch of fan mail.

Meantime, Ernest Aldrich Simpson, her divorced husband, went down to Southampton today to meet Mrs. Jacques Raffray, wife of a New York insurance broker, when she arrived on the liner Hamburg, and returned to London with her in the greatest secrecy.

The cloak of protection was thrown around Mrs. Simpson only after a heavy increase in her mail from England, the United States, the dominions and colonies. Most of the writers wished her the best of luck in her personal life.

SEEMED HAPPIEST

Mrs. Simpson celebrated Thanksgiving by taking lunch with a friend, Mrs. Fitzgerald, at a fashionable hotel in the West End. She was dressed in a magnificent Russian mink ankle-length coat and a black satin bonnet perched on the back of her head, setting a new London fashion.

She looked extremely thin and was easily the best and most expensively dressed woman in the hotel. She seemed the happiest, also, and chatted vivaciously with her friends. Later she left for her home in Cumberland terrace.

Late in the afternoon she astounded bystanders by leaving her house alone, walking along Marylebone road and hopping a bus. She was immediately swallowed up by London's customary dense crowd of shoppers.

AUNT ENTERTAINS

Mrs. Simpson's aunt, Mrs. Merryman, entertained a number of women friends at a Thanksgiving lunch at the American Women's Club.

At Southampton Simpson and Mrs. Raffray blindly refused to answer the questions of the press and evaded photographers through the co-operation of customs officers. When they stepped off the boat train here they shielded their faces from the cameras and hurried off without comment to an undisclosed destination.

Life and Royal Love of 'Wally' Simpson

KING'S FRIEND NO MERE COMMONER

ROMANCE LEVELS BARRIERS

By CHOLLY KNICKERBOCKER

Wales has become King Edward VIII, "by the grace of God, of Great Britain, Ireland, and the British dominions beyond the seas, king, defender of the faith, emperor of India."

And Bessie Wallis Warfield Simpson has become the most envied woman in the entire universe, envied because she is reported to have captured the greatest matrimonial prize the world has to offer.

WALLY NOT A "COMMONER"

Truth, they tell us, is always stranger than fiction.

Certainly the true story of events that led up to the romance of the beautiful Baltimore belle and the democratic and popular ruler of Great Britain, is much more exciting, and decidedly more thrilling, than any fiction love-tale ever written.

Those "in the know" are absolutely certain Bessie Wallis Warfield Simpson will become King Edward's bride shortly after his coronation in Westminster Abbey, next May.

The "doubting Thomases" are in the minority. They advance untold reasons why a British king cannot marry an American "commoner."

They forget there is no such word as "cannot" in the vocabulary of the very modern and very intelligent young man who now sits on England's throne, and who has brushed aside many of the moss-covered conventions of England's former rulers.

They also forget that, in a strict sense of the word, Bessie Wallis Warfield Simpson is NOT a "commoner."

Her family background is of great antiquity, and were she so disposed, the woman who now graces the headlines in papers throughout the world—with the exception of England — could match many of the English nobles ancestor for ancestor.

LOVE, THE LEVELER

Those who know King Edward VIII and Mrs. Simpson tell me the couple have no wish to upset historical precedent, they have no desire to write new pages of history—but they ARE anxious to take each other "for better, or for worse," just like any pair of human beings suffering from that glorious malady: L-O-V-E.

The question of "king and commoner" is one that seems to have been raised by practically everyone but the two principles in this greatest of modern romances.

MRS. WALLIS SIMPSON, the daughter

Note the striking resemblance between the late Mrs. Alice Montague Warfield Rasin Allen (arrow), mother—to her daughter, Mrs. Wallis Simpson, about whose romance the world is reading and talking. The then Mrs. Alys Warfield, of Baltimore, was photographed in an Atlantic City boardwalk rolling chair, with two friends, unidentified.

(Copyright, 1936, by Universal Service.)

Mrs. Simpson, secure in her possession of a family tree with numerous verdant branches, knows she can produce for an inquisitive world a flawless pedigree.

And the happily-in-love ruler of the British Empire feels it's the present—not the past—that counts.

Months will elapse before Mrs. Simpson's degree of divorce from her second husband, Ernest A. Simpson, becomes absolute.

And admitted, much can happen in those months.

But let's go on the theory the beautiful Baltimore belle with fascinating blue-green eyes, the fair, white skin of a goddess and the most beautiful of raven tresses is destined to become the bride of a reigning king, and the mistress of Buckingham Palace.

That, alone, makes her, at 40, the most-talked-of woman in the world today.

But what about her early life, her childhood, her family, her juvenile "crushes," etc.

SUBSTITUTE DOCTOR

All—and more—will be reported in this serial biography.

To start at the beginning, Bessie Wallis Warfield first saw the light of day on June 19, 1896, in the vine-covered cottage her very young father and mother, Mr. and Mrs. Teackle Wallis Warfield, had leased at quaint and scenic Monterey, Blue Ridge Summit, Pa., in the heart of the Blue Ridge Mountains.

Monterey was a summer resort favored by many of Baltimore's "first families" in the "gay nineties."

And, belonging to the best social clans the Maryland city had to offer, it was quite in order that the Teackle Wallis Warfields should go there to await the arrival of the long-legged connubial bird.

At the time Mrs. Teackle Wallis Warfield was but eighteen years old, and her husband, whom she so deeply loved, was in far from excellent health.

When it was suggested to Alys Montague Warfield that it might be better if she returned to Baltimore for the "great event," she refused to leave her ill husband, and a hurry call was sent for Dr. Leonard E. Neale, the family physician, in Baltimore.

Dr. Neale was an outstanding obstetrician of his day and he had treated Mrs. Warfield before she left for the mountains.

HER EARLIER WAILS

But Dr. Neale was ill when the call came from Blue Ridge Summit, Pa., and the honor of bringing 1936's most important feminine figure into the world fell to Dr. Neale's assistant, Dr. Lewis Mines Allen.

At the tender age of 22, Dr. Allen had dedicated his life as a memorial to his mother, who died when he was born.

And the call to the attractive two-story Warfield cottage, adjacent to the exclusive Monterey Inn, was Dr. Allen's first important professional call.

A short time after his arrival at Blue Ridge Summit, he introduced Bessie Wallis Warfield to her anxious mother, saying encouragingly:

"She's all right—just let her cry—it'll do her good."

They named the baby "Bessie" for her aunt Bessie—Mrs. D. Buchanan Merryman of Washington (her mother's sister who is now in London serving as Mrs. Simpson's chaperone) and "Wallis" to please her father.

And there, in the Blue Ridge Mountains that border Maryland and Pennsylvania, life began for Bessie Wallis Warfield.

(The next chapter in this authentic life story of Mrs. Wallis Simpson tells about her infancy—in tomorrow's Boston Evening American.)

Grid Star's Wife Malden Fire Heroine

MRS. JOHN DEL ISOLA

Mrs. John Del Isola, wife of the star guard of the New York Giants professional football team, played a heroine's role today in a two-alarm fire which menaced the lives of nine persons.

She awoke to find flames eating their way upward from the basement of the two-family house in which she and her husband have the upper apartment in Vine street, Malden.

She roused her sister, Mrs. Mary James. They carried to safety a two-weeks-old baby, Mary Christine James, and three-year-old son, John Del Isola, Jr.

Mrs. Del Isola then went through heavy smoke to the apartment occupied by her husband's relatives, Mr. and Mrs. Tony Del Isola.

Del Isola was all-scholastic when he played at Everett High. He later starred at Fordham.

HARBOR VICTIM BODY FOUND

Hands clinging to an empty packing box in the grim grip of death, the body of a well-dressed man, about 45 years old, was recovered from the Fort Point Channel today.

At first it had been thought the drowned man might have been John Albert Lyons, missing figure in the Grayce Asquith mystery murder.

The name "Bearce" was marked on a coat label, also on his sox. In a trousers pocket was a handkerchief initialed "B." Police said he had been dead less than 12 hours.

Authorities said they needed further investigation to determine if he got into the water through his own act or at the hands of other persons.

He was a fraction more than six feet tall, weighing about 165 pounds, with greyish brown hair, blue eyes, high cheek bones and clean shaven.

Catholics Plan Mass In Trailers

Detroit, Nov. 27 (INS)—Traveling churches in auto trailers were foreseen as possible here today.

The Right Rev. Msgr. Eugene J. McGuinness, director of the Catholic church extension service, said he would use a trailer chapel as an experiment to carry missionary work to the children of remote hill sections of the country.

"If the trailer proves as successful as the two railroad car chapels used by the service now, other trailers will be used in the work," he declared.

London Weekly Hints "Old Guard" War on King

London, Nov. 27 (UR)—"The Week," weekly publication, today hinted broadly that the disgruntled "old guard" around Buckingham Palace has opened an attack on King Edward's prerogatives in connection with his contemplated marriage to Mrs. Wallis Simpson.

Without mentioning Mrs. Simpson by name but making one reference to "one of the King's intimate friends," described only as "she," "The Week" says under the subheading "The Monarchy":

"There is considerably more than meets the eye in the curiously, almost threateningly, worded leading articles on the King which appeared in Tuesday's London Times, followed by the explosion of similar depth charges in the London Daily Telegraph Wednesday and by some further observations on the same subject—though hung on another peg—in Wednesday's Times.

"People close to the situation in and around the palace are startled and alarmed by the appearance and tone of the articles in question, which in some well-informed quarters are taken as menacing barometers of the lengths to which the 'old guard' at the palace is prepared to go in an intransigeant, last ditch fight.

"The Times and Telegraph articles were devoted to the subject of the favorable reception which the King's visit to South Wales received in certain quarters and the fact that at least one newspaper drew a sharp contrast between the attitude and energy of the King and the inaction of the cabinet.

"Both newspapers in a fervent defense of the cabinet went so far as actually to speak of a threat to the monarchy itself. Both implied such a threat if ever and whenever a difference between the views of the king and the cabinet exists and comes to light, unless the partisans of the king's opinion are content to remain perfectly silent and pretend agreement with the cabinet.

"The threat was clear enough. Given the special circumstances of the moment and the profound differences of view existing on certain other and more intimate matters, the unusual behavior of these 'two newspapers could not but be regarded as a move in a campaign which has implications and objectives far beyond the immediate matter under discussion.

"It is indeed the first occasion in which the whispered threats of the 'Old Guard' as to what they would be prepared to do 'in certain eventualities' have begun to reach the printed page.

"It has to be stated that the atmosphere around the whole controversy has become definitely more thundery over the week-end."

ROOSEVELT BIDS BRAZIL HELP MAINTAIN PEACE

generous view of our common needs."

He spoke from the tribune of the chamber after receiving a rousing morning ovation at the beautiful rock-rimmed Rio harbor and in the rose-strewn streets of Brazil's capital, as he drove to a luncheon at the home of E. G. Fonter, wealthy Brazilian.

PEACEFUL REVOLUTION

In an address of welcome in the Chamber, Rosul Fernandez, diplomat and former majority floor leader, asserted Roosevelt admitted he had brought about a revolution, but was proud it had been a peaceful one.

To quoted at length about a leading Brazilian statesman's theme that the Monroe Doctrine "must be recognized as a prominent force for peace on the American continent."

Members of the Supreme Court, their black robes accentuating the crisp, white dress of President Roosevelt's military and naval aides and the Marine Lieutenant-Colonel's uniform of James Roosevelt, attended the ceremony.

THE BEST ANSWER

Holding up an example to the world the warm friendship between the United States and Brazil, Roosevelt asserted "the fine record of our relations is the best answer to those pessimists who scoff at the idea of a friendship of nations.

"In the present state of the world it is heartening that the two largest countries of this hemisphere have been able, by the exercise of good will, good temper and good sense, to conduct the whole course of their relations without clash, or conflict, or ill-feeling."

Asserting all instrumentalities for the maintenance of peace must be consolidated and reinforced the United States President added:

"We cannot countenance aggression from wheresoever it may come."

Continuing, he said:

"Solidarity among American states in the cause of peace constitutes no threat or other regions or races. Honorable adherence to the solemn agreements among us will harm no other continent.

BETTER FOR WORLD

"On the contrary, the more firmly peace is established on this hemisphere, the more closely we live up to the spirit as well as the letter of our agreements, the better it will be for the rest of the world.

"Let us present a record which our hemisphere may give the world as convincing proof that peace always is at hand when nations, serene in their sovereign security, meet their current problems with understanding and good will."

Referring to the Buenos Aires conference, Mr. Roosevelt asserted:

"World horizons may be dark, but the time is auspicious for our task in America. The rest of the world presents a grim picture of armed camps and threats of conflict. But in our own continent the armed clashes which in recent years have divided American countries have been, happily, brought to an end."

FIRST CONCERN

Like the United States, he said the first concern of Brazil is peace.

"I think I can say," he went on, "that if, in generations to come, we can live without war, Democratic government throughout the Americas will prove its complete ability to raise the standards of life for those millions who cry for an opportunity today.

"The motto of war is: 'Let the strong survive; let the weak die.' The motto of peace is: 'Let the strong help the weak to survive.'

"The progress the Americas have made 'must not be allowed to serve as a pretext for resting on our laurels,' the United States President added.

On the contrary, he declared, it should stimulate the new world to greater effort.

MADE PERMANENT

"It is not enough that peace prevails from the Arctic to the Antarctic, from the Atlantic to the Pacific," he said. "It is essential that this condition be made permanent, that we provide effectively against a recurrence of the horrors of war, and assure peace to ourselves and our posterity."

The President, who leaves Brazil at 10 p. m. tonight for Buenos Aires, said the United States derived strength and confidence from "the far-sighted and irreproachable attitude of Brazil in its devotion to arbitration, conciliation and other methods for the peaceful settlement of international disputes."

He added:

"There are, it is true, conflicts of interests between American states, but they cannot be called serious or difficult of solution when compared with the deeply-rooted hates of other continents."

The United States President reached Rio to be greeted, etc., first brief second lead.

The President reached Rio to be greeted by the outstretched arms of Brazil's chief executive and the songs and cheers of her people.

Despite a drizzling rain, the President removed his hat and stood at attention while massed bands played the Brazilian national anthem. The two presidents embraced warmly and shook hands.

WARSHIPS LINE UP

Twelve of Brazil's 16 warships were lined up in the harbor with their crews standing at attention as the United States vessel glided between Sugar Loaf Mountain and Santa Cruz fortress.

As the Indianapolis approached Maua pier, 5000 school children sang "The Star Spangled Banner" to welcome Mr. Roosevelt.

The two presidents got into an official automobile and started for the residence several miles away, which Mr. Roosevelt was invited to occupy during his 12-hour stay here.

Riding in an open car, the two Presidents were seen by an estimated 300,000 persons packed behind troops and against the walls of buildings.

More fortunate spectators, leaning from office windows in the Avenida Rio Branco, sprinkled white and pink roses on their heads.

President Roosevelt waved his light grey hat and smiling broadly. President Vargas gestured with his hand-fermeed black derby.

Foreign Minister Jose Carlos Macedo Soares, United States Ambassador Hugh S. Gibson, Dr. Oswaldo Aranha, Brazilian minister to Washington, and James Roosevelt followed in the procession of seven cars.

Italian Princess Expects Stork

Princess Marie Jose

Rome, Nov. 27 (INS)—Crown Princess Marie Jose of Italy expects to give birth to a child early in 1937, according to an official announcement today.

Should the child prove to be a boy, he would become next in the Kingdom of Italy and the Italian empire. Princess Maria Pia, first child of Crown Prince Humbert and Princess Marie Jose, now nearly three years old, under the law is not an heir to the throne.

Drowned Woman Not Mrs. Staples

Galveston, N. H., Nov. 27 — A woman's body, found in the river here, is not that of Mrs. Sarah W. Staples, missing wife of the late Police Captain John W. Staples of Auburn, Me., Medical Examiner Walter Noyes announced today, after studying the drowning victim's teeth.

Captain Staples recently committed suicide.

The mystery of his wife's disappearance had preyed upon his mind, friends said.

Funni's Name Funny to Others

Detroit, Nov. 27—Robert George Fumi never has favored his last name. So petitioned the court to make it Robert George Howard, because people think it is a "funny" name and that it is hurting him in his business.

WHY PUT UP WITH PIMPLES, WRINKLES AND A SALLOW SKIN?

So many women throw their charm and beauty away—look years older than they are—because they neglect constipation. They forget that badly balanced meals, over a period of years, can change how they look and feel.

Often their menus lack the "bulk" needed for regular habits. Then constipation, the beauty-killer, sets in. Other effects may be headaches, listlessness, sleeplessness.

Get "bulk" back into your meals with a delicious cereal: Kellogg's ALL-BRAN. It absorbs moisture within the body, forms a soft mass, gently cleanses the system.

Just eat two tablespoonfuls daily, either as a cereal or in cooked dishes. ALL-BRAN is guaranteed. Try it a week. If not satisfactory, your money will be refunded by the Kellogg Company. Sold by all grocers. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

UNSUNG HERO VISITOR

Fr. Flanagan Rehabilitates Boys

Almost unnoticed in the rush of post holiday news was the arrival in Boston for a brief Thanksgiving visit of an unsung hero.

To more than 400 boys befriended by him he is more than Father Edward J. Flanagan, who has spent his life in the single cause of aiding homeless youngsters.

He is their material and spiritual father who through the creation of Boys Town, Nebraska, has been the means of starting them on the road to success.

After a short stay with his niece, Mrs. Ellen Flanagan of Revere, he hurried back to his town, where today 270 boys from the ages of 9 to 21, are being cared for and taught trades.

Strongly opposed to reformatory schools, Father Flanagan's philosophy is that a boy with a real home will become a good citizen.

During the past 20 years, he said, not a single one of "his boys" has ever faced a court, and all of them are now either earning their living or preparing to.

The town has been made possible through contributions from such well-known Americans as the late Will Rogers, Jack Dempsey, William Randolph Hearst and many others.

STRIKE LOOMS AT WELLESLEY

A strike of 95 per cent of the children attending the Isaac Sprague school, Wellesley, was scheduled for Monday as members of the parent-teachers' association of that school today planned further action against the school committee for alleged discrimination in arranging the classes according to "social standing."

That the situation in Wellesley has become serious was evidenced by the fact that James D. Brennahan, head of the association, has received threats to "lay off" the school committee.

RUSS FINISH KEY RAILROAD

Moscow, Nov. 27 (AP)—Completion of steel laying on the most important military railroad in the world—the Soviet Great Northern to the Pacific—was announced today.

G. M. Krutoff, premier of the far-eastern area, disclosed the first supply train reached Komsomolsk yesterday from Moscow.

This railway is one of the keystones of Soviet defense against any Japanese attack. It parallels the Trans-Siberian Railway, but will within Soviet territory.

Krutoff declared the Soviet Far East was "ready for defense" and sounded a stern warning to Japan.

Fractures Skull In Avoiding Crash

In an effort to avoid a head-on collision, Rocco Puncillo of Cambridge rammed his car into a concrete safety sign on Massachusetts avenue, Cambridge, today and was removed to Cambridge City Hospital with a fractured skull.

His passenger, Marion McCleskey of South Boston, received slight injuries and was sent home.

OETTIGER NEW PUBLISHER IN SEATTLE

ntinued from First Page carry out this important asnment."

Mr. Boettiger, who is 36 years
d, began his newspapering days
Chicago in 1921, on the City ews Bureau.

In the following year he joined the staff of the Chicago Evening American, and in 1923 he went to the Chicago Tribune. He covered every type of news on that paper and served for a time as day city editor.

When Mr. Roosevelt was nominated for the presidency in 1932,
Mr. Boettiger was assigned to cover his campaign, and after the election he became assistant chief of the Tribune's Washington bureau.

Resigning from the Tribune in November, 1933, Mr. Boettiger joined the staff of Will H. Hays, president of the Motion Picture Producers and Distributors of America.

Shortly thereafter he was married to President Roosevelt's daughter, Anna, and they have since lived in New York.

LETTER TO HAYS

The Hays' office yesterday made public a letter addressed by Mr.
Boettiger to Mr. Hays, in which the former expressed appreciation for the opportunities afforded him in his work.

"Even as I return to my first choice—the newspaper business," Mr. Boettiger wrote, "I think it is not amiss for me here to say to you that it is good to know what the leaders in the industry —and more and more people outside it, as well—know and appreciate your efforts and your leadership.

"Your sagacity and your honests of purpose have brought the business through many perilous times and finally to the high point which is now occupies. I know it will go forward as long as you are at the wheel."

When asked to discuss the policies which he will follow in his new post, Mr. Boettiger declined to comment, except to say that "the paper will speak for itself."

W. W. Tanner, present publisher, is a member of the law firm of Tanner & Garvin, and will continue as legal representative of the Seattle Post-Intelligencer.

For some time Mr. Tanner has desired to devote the greater portion of his time to his legal practice, but the management asked him to keep his association until the conclusion of the strike.

Charles B. Lindeman will continue as executive publisher. The other executives of the newspaper will continue in their posts.

New Publisher

John Boettiger, who has just been made publisher of the Seattle Post Intelligencer, and Mrs. Boettiger, who is the daughter of President and Mrs. Roosevelt.

Vermont Probes Smuggling Ring

500,000 CHEER AS SANTA SON ARRIVES

Memories of a mammoth, colorful Santason parade, plenty to eat with turkey as the main course, charity and good will were what remained today as Thanksgiving became history.

Following a triumphant procession through four miles of downtown streets, cheered wildly by more than 500,000 children and grown-ups, Santason set up his headquarters today at Jordan Marsh Company, where he will be until Christmas.

Pushy was the by-word of thousands in Boston as turkey held the spotlight in homes, restaurants and hotels.

This year, more than ever before, welfare and charitable agencies successfully accomplished in taking care of the thousands of needy and unemployed.

That no one should go hungry on Thanksgiving was the keynote, apparently, of these helpful groups and individuals.

Despite early rain the morning football attendance at the Greater Boston football games was at the usual high mark.

By noon the sun had broken through and the rest of the day was clear, cold and with a shining sun.

Strikers to Picket By Lying Flat On Ground

Reading, Pa., Nov. 27 (AP)— Strikers at the Berkshire Knitting Mills said they would start their 16th week of the dispute Monday by lying flat on the ground at the entrances.

Elwood Kepples of the strikers' committee claimed the idea
"a new one in picketing methods."

He said the pickets would "lie flat on the ground at the mill entrance so close together that persons attempting to enter the mill will have to walk over them, climb a fence or not go to work."

$25,000 Gem Theft Probed

New York, Nov. 27 (INS)—Po-

A. F. OF L. READY TO ELECT 1937 OFFICIALS

By EDWARD B. LOCKETT

Tampa, Fla., Nov. 27 (INS)—
Completion of a 1937 legislative program, election of officers and selection of next year's convention city, [illegible] the American Federation of Labor today as the final actions of its 56th annual meeting.

Torn by dissension and with more than a third of its 3,400,000 membership stripped away in continued association of the ten rebel union of John L. Lewis committee for industrial organization, the 1936 labor congress will end tonight.

COUNCIL TO MEET

Tomorrow, and perhaps Sunda too, the new executive council w hold its first meetings, at which e invitation will be framed invitin the Lewis forces to abandon the defiant drive to organize the ste industry along mass or industry lines, and come back into the A. F of L. fold. Veteran leaders believ peace seems as far away as ever.

Denver, Philadelphia and Mon real were the three cities seekin the A. F. of L. 1937 conventi with delegates apparently favori Montreal.

Beyond doubt, President Gree who took over federation lea ership when the veteran Sa uel Gompers died, will be re-ele ed to the presidency. However this election may provide mild fi works because some of the Lew sympathizers here planned to a Green some embarrassing qu tions.

MAIN OBJECTIVE

Next year's main objective the Federation will be shor working hours and minima wages for organized labor.

Today, the convention was pected to endorse 30-hour-we bills before both houses of C gress providing for a six-hour, fi day week for workers.

The Fox Turn

St. Joseph, Mo., Nov. 27 (AP)— Urged on by hunters, the hound tore after the fox over snow fields. In no hurry, the fo stopped when surrounded an snapped at the pursuers.

Back fell the long ears of th hounds. Down went their tails
And they backed away.

Dogs to Aid Sleepy City Patrolmen

Philadelphia, Nov. 27 (AP)— Mayor S. Davis Wilson ordered today the immediate purchase of eight German shepherd dogs, to accompany patrolmen on dangerous beats.

The mayor ordered that the dogs be trained for police work in outlying sections of the city. His action followed the slaying of Patrolman James T. Morrow last Monday night along a lonely road in northeast Philadelphia.

Morrow was shot while looking for a robber who had committed a series of holdups. The patrolman ordered a suspect to halt, and was shot before he could draw his service pistol.

Butterfly Tabs on New Knit

HERE IS an advance peek on new knit fashions the kind that may see your winter wardrobe through to a glorious finish or take a prominent place in your spring plans. It's done in a new yarn that is soft, dull and richly spiced with lustrous flecks, one of the great fabrics this winter. The cut-away jacket is smart and becoming, and the stunning note is in the butterfly tabs that flip through the belt. There is a contrast in the collar which might be tripled by a striker linen blouse. It's a style that is excellent for the slightly heavier figure. If you would like to have this or any other fashion suggestion write to Annee Stark, Fashion Editor, Boston Evening American and she will be glad to help you.

Contest Rules

Here are the rules for the Roosevelt Inauguration Tour Competition for High School Students:

1—The Boston Evening American will publish ten questions dealing with subjects of American history. The best answers to these questions will entitle the pupils to Washington to see the inauguration of President Roosevelt. The awards will be made to ten boys and ten girls in Massachusetts.

2—One of these questions will be published daily for ten days, from Wednesday, Nov. 25, until Friday, Dec. 4. Answers must be submitted separately. They must be kept until the last question is published. Then all ten answers must be submitted as a contest entry.

3—The deadline for the reception of entries will be made by Saturday, Dec. 5. Entries mailed will be received if they bear postmarks not later than midnight of that date. A Board of Judges will pass on all entries, and their decisions shall be final and not subject to appeal.

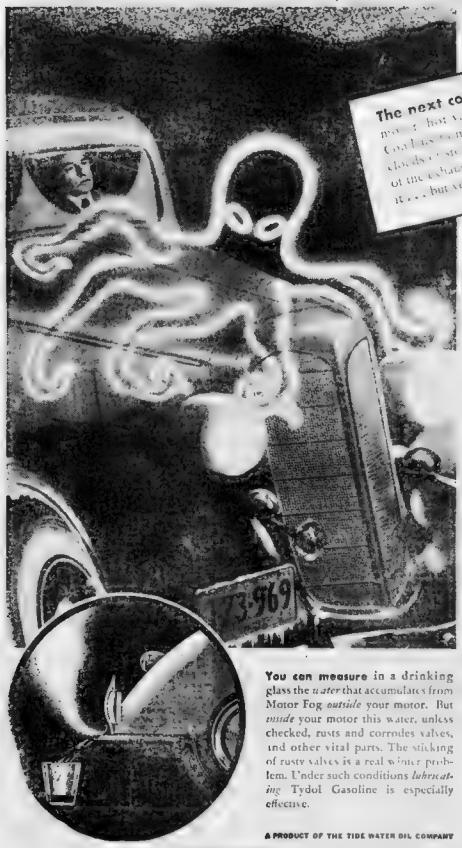
Motor Fog strangles motors



The next cold morning you start your motor, hot vapors will strike cold metal. Condensation will take place. You will see clouds of steam and drops of water pour out of the exhausts. That's Motor Fog. You only see it . . . but your motor feels it.

NEW fast-starting gasoline prevents disastrous Rust and Corrosion caused by Motor Fog

Water in your motor means trouble in your motoring. Motor Fog is water—it leaves a sinister trail of rust and corrosion—it strangles motor power.

Change to Tydol Gasoline NOW—and prevent Motor Fog ravages. You pay no more to use Tydol, but you may pay plenty more in costly damage if you don't. Tydol contains a special top-cylinder oil that constantly lubricates cylinder walls and valves and pistons. Tydol also embodies an anti-rust, anti-corrosion cleaning agent.

During the cold winter months you can't keep Motor Fog out of your motor. But with Tydol in your tank you can keep your motor off the road to ruin.

Copr. 1936 by Tide Water Oil Company

You can measure in a drinking glass the water that accumulates from Motor Fog outside your motor. But inside your motor this water, unless checked, rusts and corrodes valves, and other vital parts. The sticking of rusty valves is a real winter problem. Under such conditions lubricating Tydol Gasoline is especially effective.

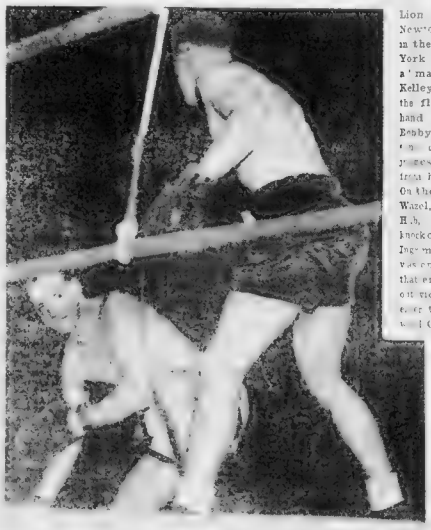
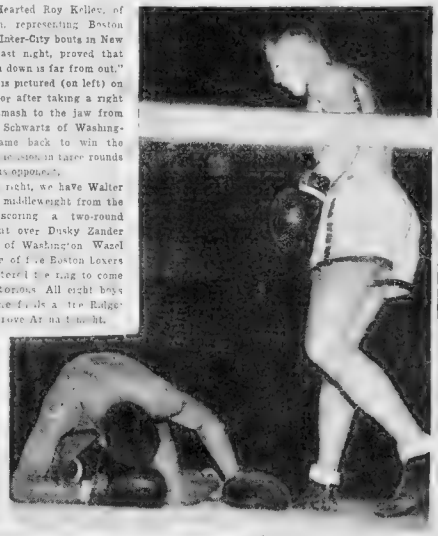
HUB BOYS Win Five FIGHTS

THREE BOYS DRAW BYES

By JACK CONWAY

New York, Nov. 17—Boston's brilliant amateur boxing team swept its way into the semi-finals and finals of the All-America boxing tournament, which will be held at the Hippodrome tonight, as a result of its remarkably good showing in the tryouts at Ridgewood Grove.





Lion Hearted Roy Kelley, of Newton, representing Boston in the Inter-City bouts in New York last night, proved that a "man down is far from out." Kelley is pictured (on left) on the floor after taking a right hand smash to the jaw from Bobby Schwartz of Washington, came back to win the bout in the last three rounds from his opponent.

On the right, we have Walter Wazel, middleweight from the B.A.A. scoring a two-round knockout over Dusky Zander Ingram of Washington. Wazel was one of five Boston boxers that entered the ring to come out victorious. All eight boys enter the finals at the Ridgewood Grove Armory tonight.

Stockholm, Me., Lad's Amazing Tale of Two Kinds of Luck

By FLOYD GIBBONS

HELLO EVERYBODY

FLOYD GIBBONS

And then he goes on to tell me why he believes in Luck, and I've got to admit Romeo has one doggone good reason. In fact, he points out "If it hadn't been for luck I wouldn't now be writing this letter."

And when you come to look that letter over, you'll find that Romeo is just as right as a man can be . . .

I can't know what's in store for me in the . . . Maybe it will pass the time . . . maybe it will be something else. Anyway, I can't know . . . I don't suspect but that pointed stick . . . and at . . . much of a weapon against the beast. Even if I'd wanted to . . . I'd have had to . . . because I was too frightened to move. I wanted to . . . but my legs felt as heavy that I couldn't get them to move. My face seemed to be paralyzed . . . I . . . I have at times . . . I'm sure with all my . . . alarm . . . but . . . I'm sure the beast wasn't . . .

At last . . . I . . . even in the strangest sight he . . . ever seen. That sharp pointed stick was at . . . pinned . . . to the ground. One end of the . . . and was jammed hard . . . the ground, and the other end impaled like a fly on . . . WAS THE WEIRDEST . . .

They found the pole all right. There was blood on the ground. But they couldn't find hide or hair of the beast. Romeo doesn't see how it could have crawled away with that stick going through its body, so he figures someone must have come along that trail and found it.

Romeo was pretty disappointed about that. You see, the state pays a bounty for the animals. And it's not left in there's no such thing as luck, because he had both kinds of . . .

In the same day, and with the same weapon.

But maybe Romeo drawn down the last buck, hereby . . . ing for good adventure yarns, and how about the rest of you . . . and girls? SEND ME THAT STORY.

Floyd Gibbons will pay good money for good TRUE adventure stories. Hundreds of people in Boston and nearby towns have received ten-dollar and hundred-dollar bills for their yarns, and there's no reason why you can't do the same, for, as Floyd says, everybody has had at least one adventure. Mrs. Florence Abbott of Revere won one hundred and ten dollars for the story of her life's biggest moment, and you can do the same. For further details see the box at the right side of the page.

LEWIS HANEY SAYS

Women in Business SMALL FACTOR in Unemployment

By LEWIS HANEY
(Professor of Economics, New York University)

New York, Nov. 27—Letters on unemployment problems keep coming in. Today I will discuss the latest. Some of these bring up new points of view.

(1)—The most frequently mentioned point this week, however, has been the working of married women or girls. Of course, the idea is that if such people did not work outside their homes, there would be more work for others.

Unquestionably, more women are working than formerly, and a good many of these women are married. Many girls also go to work who do not need to do so.

Unquestionably, too, during the time in which the change in this direction has been going on, it has tended to increase unemployment somewhat.

This, however, is a temporary effect and should disappear automatically as soon as the adjustment has been completed. Any change of this sort always brings trouble for a while, especially if it be very rapid and widespread.

Three points are to be made against the "married woman" line of argument.

First, this change has been going on for years and actively since the war. It seems improbable that it has caused a large percentage of the depression unemployment.

Second, much of it is the result of a "teaming up" between two young people who otherwise could not afford to get married. In many cases they merely go on working as before, which does not change unemployment one way or the other.

Third, this whole idea is mixed with the fallacy of the "lump of work" notion, which is that there is only a fixed quantity to do in the world.

Those who think that there is only a limited "lump of work" to do always argue that the way to make work for more people is to have each worker do less.

The truth is that human wants are practically unlimited and that there is always a chance for more work. A man or woman who can produce something that is wanted should and can always see able to earn a wage.

It may be a bad thing to have as many wives going to work instead of caring for homes and families.

I doubt, however, that this is an important cause of the unemployment of 9,000,000 persons in 1936, as against 1½ or 2,000,000 in 1929.

(2) One letter says: Break up concentration and integration in industry. If big companies were smaller, there would be more offices and employes.

There is something in this. To the extent that monopoly, price maintenance, waste and inefficiency go along with big overgrown companies, this is a strong point.

These things mean unnecessarily high prices, which restrict the volume of sales and production and, therefore, employment.

But if the big concern is really more efficient and produces more cheaply, it would do no good in the long run to break it up into smaller concerns.

(3) Another letter calls for reduced interest rates on real estate loans, in order to stimulate home ownings and building operations. This would make work.

This is an interesting point. I wonder, however, if it could be proved that interest rates have been an important cause of the building slump. It seems doubtful if this factor is as important as high cost of labor and materials.

In my observation, the "curb" difficulty with mortgages has been in getting any money at all, not in getting a lower interest rate.

We need never to remember that in most lenders, real estate does not seem to be as desirable security for loans as other forms of security. (It is often very "slow" and taxes may eat up the value).

I know of no monopoly among lenders or among buyers of mortgages. I therefore doubt if interest rates are unduly high.

When all is said, the way to increase total employment is to increase total production and, thus, the quantity of productive work.

Can this be done in any way except by making things cheaper and thus broadening the markets for them.

LOANS To Small TRADES SOUGHT BY BERRY

By STANLEY CARROLL
Universal Service

Washington, Nov. 27—Government loans to small business, similar to the service rendered large business by the Reconstruction Finance Corporation, will be advocated by George L. Berry, the President's co-ordinator for industrial recovery, at his forthcoming conference of industry and labor, it was learned.

Convinced that the small business man has been overlooked in the federal program to spread employment and stimulate recovery, Major Berry will ask the conference to recommend that Congress set up the machinery to place government financial aid within reach of modest enterprises.

At the same time it was learned Major Berry is drafting plans for a broad legislative program for presentation to representatives of industry and labor who attend the meeting here December 10 and 11. It embraces:

1—Federal and state legislation setting up minimum wage and maximum hour standards.

2—More liberal interpretation of the anti-trust laws and possible curtailment of the power of the federal trade commission, to limit its "interference" with business.

3—Withdrawal of the government from competition with private industries.

4—A continuing study of the flow of national income, to insure against recurrence of economic depressions.

5—Establishment of the Berry industrial Council on a permanent basis.

A corps of government lawyers it was learned, is engaged in a careful study to determine what Federal legislation, regulating hours and wages is possible in view of the Supreme Court decision, which upset the National Recovery Administration.

Though this examination is yet incomplete, the tentative purpose is for Congress to set standards for interstate business, leaving to the states the problem of regulating hours and wages within their borders in strictly intrastate fields.

Major Berry was is opposed to any revival of codes in other such fashion as the defunct NRA, and today.

"I have consistently advocated legislation to put a floor under wages and a ceiling over hours."

NEW Financial CHAPTER IN CURRENCY PROBLEM

By MERRYLE STANLEY RUKEYSER

New York, Nov. 27—Revaluation of the French franc and other continental European currencies this autumn, in the perspective of the future, will perhaps mark the opening of a new financial chapter.

Until the new gestures toward stabilization were made, the American stock market was receiving continuous bull stimulus from cash buying for foreign accounts.

Ordinarily such an influx of security purchasing power might have been immediately reversed by the new stabilization policies abroad. However, political considerations intervened, and made it advantageous for foreigners to continue substantial dollar balances and dollar investments in New York. These political motives were behind re-enactment.

From the standpoint of the French nation, for example, there is national defense value in the huge dollar credits. These represent reserve purchasing power in the event of an emergency. Such reserves are especially important now in view of the fact that France is in default on the war debt to the United States treasury, and hence under the terms of the Johnson act is ineligible to float new loans in this country.

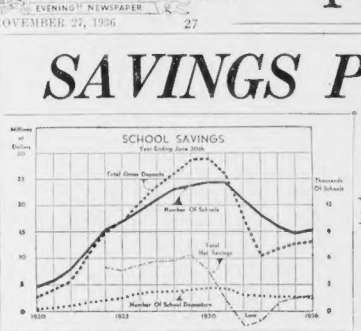
As far as French individuals are concerned, they probably consider dollar investments as a hedge against devaluation at home. At this time when old world governments, such as Italy and Germany, are taking drastic steps to prevent flight of individual investors, individuals doubtless like to keep nest eggs out of the immediate reach of their own government.

For these reasons there has been reluctance on the part of Europeans to take profits on their American holdings, and repatriate their investable funds. In addition to these political motives, they may also feel that, despite the prolonged rise, that these securities are still attractive from investment standpoint.

Irrespective of this, there is no longer the pre-Autumn inducement to make a flight from European currencies. With the new devaluation incidental to devaluation. Accordingly, it may be doubted whether the market will receive as much stimulus as before from foreign quarters.

Since 1934 and prior to the recent wave of devaluation on continental exchanges, Americans have had a double advantage in buying American equities, raising the price of gold from $20.67 to $35, with some correspondingly increase the purchasing power—and investing purchasing power throughout most of the very time when American securities were depreciated in terms of foreign exchanges. With the subsequent rise in the price of stocks, foreigners have had a double barreled source of profit.

SAVINGS PLAN



SCHOOL BANKS Located in Every State

School savings banks are located in every State of the Union.

For the school year ending June 30, 1936, there were 9070 schools throughout the United States offering a savings plan to school children.

The popularity of school savings grew rapidly between 1920 and 1930. During this time the number of schools with savings banks increased from 2726 to 14,628.

The number of school children depositors increased from 467,839 to 3,957,000. Gross deposits rose from $2,800,000 to $29,113,000. Net savings, which mean gross deposits minus withdrawals and borrowings, rose from $8,500,000 in 1924 to $10,500,000 in 1929.

The depression caused a rapid depletion of funds deposited in school savings. In 1932 and 1933 net savings showed a loss of over $2,000,000.

Gross deposits declined to $10,500,000 in 1933.

The 1936 report shows that gross deposits now total $12,081,000 and net savings $3,370,000. Source of the above data, American Bankers Association.

Van Sweringen

RAIL EXECUTIVE NAMED AS SUCCESSOR

OTHER MEN ALSO MENTIONED

By JAMES L. KILGALLEN
International News Service Staff Correspondent

New York, Nov. 27—In Wall Street where the question — "Who will succeed Van Sweringen?" — is causing conjecture, the belief was expressed today by the well-informed that no one will be able to take the place of O. P. Van Sweringen, the financial genius who died this week.

"He was O. P. Van Sweringen — there will never be another like him," they said. "He was a personality who cannot be replaced."

It was pointed out that Van Sweringen, who rose from newsboy to the controlling director of $3,000,000,000 worth of railroad investments, was not chairman of the board of the various companies he handled.

He was only a director.

In all probability, it was stated several men will be named to take Van Sweringen's place on the various boards of such companies as Chesapeake & Ohio, New York, Chicago & St. Louis (Nickel Plate), Erie, Missouri Pacific and Pere Marquette.

The name of Herbert C. Fitzpatrick, railroad executive, is being mentioned prominently in the task of a successor to Van Sweringen. He was a close adviser to Van Sweringen and is highly regarded in financial circles. He is vice president of the C. & O., Missouri Pacific, Pere Marquette and the Nickel Plate.

Other names mentioned include William Wyer, secretary and treasurer of the Missouri Pacific; Colonel Leonard P. Ayers, vice president of Cleveland Trust Company; John P. Murphy, secretary, treasurer and director of Chesapeake Corporation; C. E. Denney, president of Erie, Frank H. Ginn, director of the C and O and Pere Marquette, and Charles L. Bradley, chairman of the board of Erie.

"Rest assured, however, there will be no successor to Van Sweringen in the sense of handling the situation as Van Sweringen did," said a well-informed financier today, "Van Sweringen created his own position."

The death of Van Sweringen naturally has caused much speculation regarding what effect the passing will have on the various railroad and holdings companies within the Van Sweringen group. There have been rumors that Chesapeake Corporation might be split up or dissolved.

Van Sweringen's spectacular career was made possible by two wealthy men who backed him in his far-flung financial operations—C. A. Ball, 74, a giant manufacturer of Muncie, Ind., and G. A. Tomlinson, 70, a shipping man of Cleveland. They are said to control Midamerica Corporation which controls Alleghany Corporation which in turn controls direction of various railroad companies.

What Ball and Tomlinson say will have strong effect upon the destinies of the Van Sweringen organization.

Tomlinson is director of the Tomlinson fleet which plies the Great Lakes. One report is that Ball may replace Van Sweringen as the direct head of Midamerica.

Maine Central's Surplus Dips

Maine Central Railroad reports for October a surplus after charges of $69,578. This compares with surplus after charges of $73,454 in October, 1935.

All forms of the road's traffic showed gains and despite heavy increases in taxes as well as additional flood damages charged into current accounts, the net income figure was within $2880 of that in October last year. Operating revenues totaled $721,435, or 6.97 per cent better than last year. Operating expense increased $59,402, or 8.12 per cent.

Of the increased expenses, $16,175 was for flood charges. Taxes were $18,918 higher than in October, 1935, due chiefly to the Railroad Retirement Act and Social Security Act. Freight revenue for the month increased 6.88 per cent over last year, while passenger revenue showed a gain of 21.12 per cent.

Hercules Powder

Hercules Powder Co. declared a year-end dividend of $2 on the common, payable December 21 to stock of record December 10. In December, 1935, one and June dividends of $1.25 each were paid, while in March 75 cents was disbursed.

New Haven's Net Income Higher

The New York, New Haven and Hartford Railroad Company reports for October showed a net income of $270,381—an improvement over a year ago of $205,149. The month also was the second since March, 1934, that a net income has been announced.

Gross revenues for the month, officials said, were $7,177,583—an increase of $709,655 or 10.9 per cent over last year, and the highest for any month since 1932. Freight revenues increased $280,000, or 6.7 per cent, and passenger revenue increased $342,620 or 19.3 per cent.

Operating expenses for the month increased $155,151 over a year ago, due mainly to increased taxes. Total expenses for the month of October, 1936, was 67.93 or 5.8 points lower than October, 1935, and the lowest since July, 1932.

George W. Helme

George W. Helme Co. declared an extra dividend of $2 and regular quarterly dividend of $1.25 on the common, both payable Jan. 2 to stock of record Dec. 21. A similar extra was paid a year ago.

Wall St. Hears

New York, Nov. 27 (INS)—That certain financial quarters are looking for an advance in crude oil prices shortly.

That Purity Bakeries (PTY) is expected to earn about 45 cents a share in the last quarter, or as much as in the three prior periods.

That some extra payment by Addressograph-Multigraph (AIN) is likely before the year-end.

BUILDING MEN

Tell What FHA HAS Achieved

By B. C. FORBES

The lumber industry enthusiastically endorses the Federal Housing Administration's activities.

This is forcefully demonstrated by the deluge of letters received by this writer since it quoted one FHA borrower who submitted figures to show that the interest charges amount to more than understood by the average borrower.

A building and loan association gives startling figures concerning the number of homes which have had to be taken over from members and contends that disposal of such homes is seriously retarded by FHA construction.

LUMBER DEALERS ACTIVE

The National Lumber Dealers' Association, through its secretary, Frank Carnahan, in course of a very comprehensive, illuminating communication, states:

"The National Lumber Dealers' Association, with a membership of approximately 23,000 lumber and building material dealers, took the initiative in securing this FHA legislation. To the end, the National Housing Act had practically the unanimous support of Congress.

"This association developed through questionnaires that, even as early as January, 1934, there was a market of close to $300,000,000 worth of construction. But nowhere was it possible to secure financing for new home building.

GIVE FHA CREDIT

"All business men engaged in the building industry, and labor, point to the FHA as the prime reason for the rehabilitation of an industry which declined, in July, 1936, almost as much building as in the whole of 1932.

"In our opinion, nothing would have broken this financing jam except the aid of a government agency.

"Thousands of banks and financial institutions are now with the soundness of the FHA program; as a result, a financing began, and the record now speaks for itself.

"The FHA does not lend any money whatsoever. It simply insures loans made by banks and other lending institutions for new construction, modernization and repair work, to create confidence so that such institutions will lend.

"The lending institutions are protected by the mutual mortgage insurance fund."

Regarding interest charges, he explains:

"The FHA mortgages represent not only first but what normally has been first, second and third mortgages.

"The actual charges under the FHA plan, which include the one-half of one per cent service charge and the one-half of one per cent insurance premium, and not to exceed 6.74 per cent.

"But these interest charges are based upon a decreasing balance and amortization payments are made under the old system they were adjusted semi-annually and sometimes quarterly.

"Never in the history of the country has first, second and third mortgages ever been procured at as low a rate as 6.24 per cent.

ALLOW FOR LOSSES

"The insurance premium allows for a reasonable margin of losses.

"You say that all past experience indicates that it should be as high as 80 per cent of the appraised value is unsafe.

"We agree, if such lending is done under the old conditions . . . It is our belief, though, that the appraisal system which is rigidly followed by the FHA is the most scientific and successful system for valuation which has ever been put into practical effect.

"Thus far, definite commitments to insure total $258,955,445, and there have been only four foreclosures in the United States.

"I would like to have you point out any system of lending which can show such a record.

"The reason for the 20-year mortgage under the FHA is that it enables the purchaser to buy the home over a long period of years, thus making the monthly payments low enough so that he not overburdened.

"In many cases he can buy and purchase a home for less than he could rent it per month.

"Actual experience causes us to be convinced that the FHA should continue its work indefinitely."

MUST WAIT FOR SALE

A building and loan spokesman states that, as the end of last year the total cost of all real estate foreclosures through or by such associations in his state was over $307,000,000.

He says that many holders of shares of these associations, in dire need of money, have asked for release from their contracts, but that they will have, to wait, until this real estate is sold.

Such men, he declares, are related by "the very stern compothings offered by the many new houses built with FHA mortgage money."

At the end of 1931 there were over 1,100,000 shareholders of these associations in his state.

Apparently, what's one man's meat is another man's poison.

BATH IRON WORKS

Maine SHIPBUILDER Active

By HUGH E. BRADSHAW

The boom time activity of the Bath Iron Works, Maine shipbuilders, is one of the most interesting New England industrial developments that has come to our attention this year.

The company's unfilled order backlog is said to total almost $20,000,000. Enough to keep the shipyard operating for nearly three years.

While a considerable part of this total is for naval vessels other business has lately shown an increase and the company has recently been launched into numerous fields with its own capital. Two of these more will be laid down this month as soon as ways are available. The Bath shipyard has also been awarded contract for the Herald of Varsities with American Cup contender Columbia, and the keels of two destroyers and an aircraft tender laid for this year's program. Work was started late in 1935 and turned out ships with a value of $1,750,000.

Business conditions in the New England area are quite satisfactory, according to the latest survey by Jones & Brastow Inc. The report emphasizes that New England, no matter how their own last week, advancing in the raw materials producing and manufacturing. Machine tool manufacturers report that new orders are coming in at a more rapid rate, and there is more activity and retail stores are preparing for a large holiday business. The shoe industry has shown considerable gains and the textile industry is also benefiting. Exports to those larger areas in the early months of next year.

Notebook: The oil stocks display long awaited signs of life . . . And impress us as a good medium for switching . . . Especially out of those issues that have had smart moves during the fall and are now in a position to do some resting . . . Interstate Department Stores is favored in circles that follow merchandising closely. They say the larger number of stores, heavily installed furniture department, handling of higher priced merchandise, better control of stocks to prevent markdowns and effective advertising have lifted the company into the front rank of successful merchandisers. . . .

The stock market is interesting indeed. Many of the shrewdest professional observers are not inclined to advise the purchase of anything in good yet, but they do say that the market is in a healthy condition and that the long term and ordinary investor is entirely justified in buying issues of unusual merit on moderate recessions. Many of these observers believe that a good recent gains have run far enough for the present and that a real new move may begin a few months hence.

This and That: There is one possible type of market action that could confuse those waiting to buy. It does not call for new high by rails . . . It would develop along these lines. If the rails would move slowly upward, industrials and utilities would go to new highs and the back of the movement would ultimately be broken by refusal of rails to follow suit. In such an event industrials measured by the Dow-Jones average would probably climb above the highs of the recent high . . . In other words 205-206 . . . For the present however, our 50 per cent invested position remains unaltered . . . Especially since our favoring of aircrafts, oils and utilities promises full participation in any rally.

UPWARD AND ONWARD

THE new promise of American life becomes bright indeed in view of the determination of Government and business to work harmoniously together.

Organized business, in announcing its post-election plans, has revealed an intention further to relieve the Federal Government of the relief load through absorbing the remainder of the capable unemployed in regular jobs.

The keynote of the new era of good feeling was expressed by Winthrop W. Aldrich, chairman of the Chase National Bank, in the presidential address before the New York Chamber of Commerce.

* * *

HE UTTERED these significant words:

"I have no means of knowing the present political complexion of the Chamber or the political preferences of its members. But whatever pre-election preferences there may have been, and whatever satisfaction or the reverse may have followed the election on November 3, I do not doubt the will of the Chamber to give its best aid to the elected Government of the United States."

Thus a reunited people works to attain the national destiny of prosperity and freedom.

In the broad efforts of the Roosevelt Administration to improve the material well-being of the people there will be cordial co-operation from business.

As a symbol of the new common-mindedness of Government and industry, Harper Sibley, president of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States, will fly to Buenos Aires to help President Roosevelt promote inter-American confidence and better trade relationships.

In the go-ahead spirit, the Chamber and the National Association of Manufacturers pledge American ingenuity and initiative to find ways and means of finishing the job of re-absorbing the idle in productive work.

* * *

PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT will find eager and co-operative organized business the most powerful and the only permanent instrument available for consummating the recovery program.

The growing feeling of harmony is enormously heartening.

IT IS A FITTING RESPONSE TO THE PRESIDENT'S FINE EXAMPLE IN MAKING IT CLEAR THAT HE INTENDED TO REMAIN CHIEF EXECUTIVE OF ALL THE PEOPLE.

It is a proper rejoinder to Mr. Roosevelt's latest request in his message to the Business Advisory Council of the Department of Commerce to devote itself "to the problem of further absorption of workers by private industry."

On behalf of business, the Council replied:

"We accept the responsibilities placed upon us by the President."

Likewise, Colby M. Chester, Jr., president of the National Association of Manufacturers, referring to Mr. Roosevelt's suggestion that industry strive to employ more unskilled and older workers, enthusiastically said:

"In every respect I am confident that the manufacturers of the nation will agree with President Roosevelt's suggestion."

* * *

THE next step should be a decision on the part of management and organized labor to attempt in a spirit of give and take to compose their differences.

Work at American wage levels, instead of mere subsistence public relief rolls, spells a marked increase in national productivity.

With the principal factors in our national life moving harmoniously toward a common goal, the outlook is good for business—and better still for the general welfare of the people.

Cardinal O'Connell

HIS EMINENCE, William Cardinal O'Connell, today observes the twenty-fifth anniversary of his elevation to the sacred College of Cardinals.

The observance, quiet and without ceremony, is characteristic of this beloved Prince of the Church, who for half a century has been an outstanding instructor in the ways of Christian faith.

As parish priest, bishop, archbishop and Cardinal, he has devoted his long and useful life to humanity, building churches and hospitals and serving God by serving man.

It is significant that, refusing personal glory, he should choose to devote this day to the blind of the diocese and work for their spiritual and material comfort.

THE years of Cardinal O'Connell's leadership as Archbishop of Boston and dean of the American hierarchy have been abundantly fruitful. One could not select a single accomplishment and call it the Cardinal's greatest.

His works are too important and numerous for that.

But on this happy occasion it is well to join with the churchmen of all faiths and creeds and to pay tribute to Cardinal O'Connell's ceaseless efforts for peace and understanding in America.

In this contribution to the general happiness he finds a just satisfaction. Modestly he says:

"The feeling which existed between Catholics and non-Catholics when I was a boy has greatly diminished.

"As a priest, bishop and Cardinal I have worked for harmony. Old differences are dead or dying fast. I have lived to see our people and the people of other creeds come to a better understanding."

The old suspicions and hatreds no longer exist. Bigotry is on the wane. Between the numerous religions that enjoy equality in America there has come a bond of sympathy and respect.

This fortunate circumstance is not an accident. It is the result of painstaking effort by the Cardinal and the tolerant leaders of other denominations.

To him and to them it is a beautiful and enduring memorial.

NEW ENGLAND, America and the world are the better for Cardinal O'Connell's leadership.

His silver jubilee transcends the bounds of creeds. It is a day for universal honor to a really great standard bearer of religion—one who represents the highest purposes of church and state—one whose goodness is as real in tenement as in temple.

Solving Traffic Problems

CRITICIZING Boston's traffic situation has been a popular sport for years. Naturally, little or nothing was accomplished.

But now the Boston Chamber of Commerce and representatives of nine co-operating organizations do more than find fault. They make constructive suggestions. And they seek results.

Their first meeting, held this week under the sponsorship of the Chamber's able president, Eliot Wadsworth, produced this three-point program:

1—Eliminate parking on narrow streets, shorten parking time on certain streets and reduce the time limit in some publicly-owned parking spaces.

2—Construct an underpass at Commonwealth and Massachusetts avenues.

3—Enforce existing parking law legislation and draft new regulations when circumstances warrant.

Their recommendations should be seriously considered by the proper authorities.

Listen, World!

Great time, this house-cleaning season! What tons of trash it eliminates!

Elsie Robinson

There's that set of hand-painted salad plates Cousin Mattie gave you when you were married. Way back in 1903. Nasty, gritty things—always get your teeth on edge when-ever you tackled the lettuce, didn't they? Well, they're gone. Thank goodness!

And there's that navy clock the gang at the office gave you when you got your first promotion. Antiquated as Old King Tut—didn't go with a thing in the house. Glory be, that's liquidated!

And all those shelves full of educational junk . . . "hair reviews" . . . "hurtin' work" . . . home repair . . . "one picture frames" . . .

But now it has all gone with the big wind. Caused a number of fairly zippy scenes, of course. You still can't quite see—can you, Bill?—why Marge should have thrown away that old fishing basket you had back in high school days, even if you have never, never used it.

HAPPIER HOME

But, taking it all in all, house-cleaning is certainly a blessing. The house looks different—more restful and mature. The walls seem more spacious without that clutter of meaningless pictures . . . you're able now to enjoy the beauty of that one, good print . . . there's a simplicity and serenity you never felt before. It's a happier, healthier home—a home with more meaning—just because you CLEANED OUT THE JUNK.

You used to wonder why home seemed tiresome—why it unconsciously tired and depressed you. Now, after the wise little wife's housecleaning, you know the reason. You know that meaningless clutter was distracting and wasting you.

But meaningless clutter may be human as well as material. There are people as silly as any embroidered gum flowers or as ugly in their impractical sentimentality as poorly glazed, hand-painted salad plates . . . as obsolete to our current tempo and technique as an ugly clock.

They are human clutter—idlers, loafers, chatterers, gossip parlors—and you waste and deface your life if you give them a place in it.

"HUMAN KNICKKNACKS"

Then why do you do it?

Because you are afraid to be alone. You do not know how to "repose within yourself" and provide amusement for yourself . . .

You do not know how to "repose within yourself" and enjoy and developing your own resources . . . You date not Be Yourself in the significant simplicity of solitude.

If you want to make something of your life—if you want to make something to yourself—GET RID OF THE HUMAN KNICKKNACKS. Drop the idle—the chatter—the aimless-ness of the telephone, the weary parlor, the lounge, window-shopping expeditions.

Eliminate the people who mean nothing to themselves or to anyone else. Keep the few—the VERY few—whom you really love, with whom you really share some living interest.

And presently you will find that you have a new, a fresh, a heartening life instead of the old cluttered program of aimless drifting, meaningless merry-go-round.

New York Day by Day -:- By O. O. McIntyre

O. O. McIntyre

New York, Nov. 27—Everyone in New York is conscious of a nastiness along the streets in the subways and in shops. In fact, it would be called a situation of decided tenseness. Everybody has the impression something is going to happen, but no one seems to know what. Smothered hysteria.

It is as if centuries of the repressed feelings of a long tedium of depression. Nerves have been shredded into a jangling, little rudenesses once unsettled become enormously magnified. Before they know it pedestrians who have jostled each other on the street are squaring away for battle.

There are a number, too, of radical agitators indulging that old trick of disturbed Russia, and Italy before the Soviet and Fascist regimes. They deliberately collide with people for the purpose of starting arguments and flaring explosions. The down-trodden proletariat stuff.

Manners, never very gracious in New York, are at their lowest ebb. A phase of the tenseness is also seen in the bombastic messages scrawled on advertising signs over town. Some indeed as inflammatory a secret squad is watching to catch them at work.

Conversation ought to thrive steadily even if only at 15 miles an hour. I had an evening recently with a charming Kyrie Bellew, handsome of the old school. He is one of those who never offer a remark except when spoken to, and then reply graciously and speak no more. One grows weary of poking up the conversational fire. I am inclined to grow sulky if a talk is like a freight train, backing and shunting and jerkily stop-going at a siding. A chatter box is preferable. One longs for even a Bob Hope or Julius Tashen.

Book sellers seem never to learn prospective patrons like to browse and be left completely alone. Every bookish browser has had the experience of being brushed away like a fly by a salve but solicitous "Can I help you?" Help us in what? So superior they are, too, in speech. Almost as corny as the pianolo duets of a Lawrence Rogers. So painfully accurate he is tiresome—like a small boy trying to be good.

Where were we? Oh, yes, what we have long sought to reply to the invariable query of book sellers is: "Yes, you can help me much by staying away." Some day we shall.

Incidentally, if you want a flock of high hatted words, read Gerald Stanley Hall. I cannot find his diction or phrases in my dictionary. But I like Intellection, Mercurious, Calabasic Viceroy (verb) and Gerrymiddling.

At a neighborhood theater fifteen reels we can catch up on films we missed. It is a delight to walk out on a show practically free. The other night, Mary of Scotland with Katharine Hepburn reeling like a high school girl and swallowing the tail end of every sentence in a mushy whisper. All surrounded by medieval warriors armed in steel corselet, helmet and epaulettes from the waist up and in almost E. V. D.'s from the waist down.

Sudden thought: Evidently in 1570 they never hit below the belt. Everybody around thought it was grand. There were ecstatic sighs and excited gasps. A Man Picture, canceling of horses, correct and capriole, vault and demi-volt—all in semi-darkness. A million dollars' worth of scenery, costumes and props and ten cents' worth of variety and talent!

Thingumabobs: Chauncey Depew, who passed the 90 mark, suffered from shortness of breath for 60 years . . . The late Louis Cohn, Broadway's most successful ticket speculator, could not read or write . . . Nothing annoyed Dana, of the old Sun, like the crackle of someone eating a ripe apple . . . Theodor, the head waiter, has evenings of discussion with such art patrons as Jules Bache, so Louis Sobol reports . . . Sinclair Lewis was fired from a San Francisco paper with: "You'll never learn to write" . . . Irene Castle is cleaning up in her millinery designing.

Radio reflections: It must be galling to shriek how you love her at 7:30 a. m. I refer to those ardulatory souls who pulsate in the early hours. I turned on the dial this morning for a news report and one yelpster after another. Moan after yell, yearn after moan, sigh after yearn.

"Land-Going Yachts"

The Human Side of the News

By Edwin C. Hill

My companion on a tour of the recent automobile show was a man who had been in the game when Chevrolet was the name of a famous race driver and when Barney Oldfield was getting a one hundred and more miles an hour out of a contraption made by a mechanic named Ford.

We came to the floor given over to trailers, the first appearance of the house on wheels in the national show. There, in fifty varieties, ranging from tiny collapsible bungalows to luxurious land-going yachts, were the homes which Americans are hitching to their cars.

Edwin C. Hill

"Just a fad," a young man in the crowd was saying, "wait and see—in another year, they'll be on the way out."

As he passed on, my friend looked after him and smiled.

"That youngster brings back memories," he remarked. "I heard another, maybe it was his father, say the very same thing 35 years ago. It was at an automobile show, too, the first ever held, down in old Madison Square Garden. It wasn't one, but it was 10,000 who looked at these horseless buggies and condemned them to the limbo of the impractical."

"Then your opinion is that we have a new infant industry here," I said.

"Hardly an infant," he answered, "it's a lusty baby by now, an industry with the ground floor rapidly filling up. You have 200 manufacturers already in the field. They've scarcely been able to keep up with sales for the past year. Price ranges are from $500 to $5000, and as you may note from the signs around here some of the large automobile companies have stepped in.

"Yes, the trailer is in the mass production field, one company alone having a production schedule of 10,000 units for the next year."

HOUSE ON WHEELS

We inspected a de luxe model. It has a living room, handsomely upholstered, a kitchenette such as you find in a modern apartment, running water, electric lights, a shower and a radio. All in all, it was a replica of a small cabin cruiser or a section of the sixth car of a railroad train.

The trailer is no part of the automobile—that is, it has no complicated machinery, no motive power and it does not go on its own. It is coupled to the motor car just as the railroad car is coupled to the locomotive. Whenever the automobile leads, the trailer will follow—up the mountainside and down into the valley.

FOLLOWING SWALLOWS

A thought occurred to me. Why shouldn't the engine be put into the trailer, giving us one new automobile and not two separate units?

"You're not saying anything new," explained my companion, "and you're rushing things. Such an automobile was made a few years ago, but it didn't get to the salesrooms. Why? We were not ready for it, and we are not ready yet.

"Not only are we creatures of habit, but in our progress we set up systems and conditions which just won't be changed overnight. You made such a statement the other day when you were talking about the tariff.

"You said free trade might be theoretically sound but when a nation has been built on protection, a right-about face would mean industrial suicide. The automobile of today is designed for our roads, our traffic conditions and our urban storage facilities.

"The trailer at present is an adjunct for long-distance tours and for our migratory population. Eventually the trailer may revolutionize body designs.

"If and when we come to the day of super highways, bringing San Francisco within three or four days of New York, we'll want automobiles in which we may sleep, eat and play bridge. And we'll have them.

In the meantime and for the present, some 750,000 persons are living on wheels in the United States. They follow the swallows. North in the summer and south in the winter. Each ribbon of concrete is becoming a gypsy trail. Because of this, a real estate expert rises to ask:

"What will happen to the tax structure if a substantial part of the population takes up this mobile existence?

"America," he says, "needs millions of low cost homes. It is a question of mass production. Will the building industry solve it, has the automobile already done so and thus won a headstart in the race for a market worth billions of dollars?"

"Between I and You"

By Winston Norman

Well, I seen in the papers where Television will be with us purty quick it. We don't watch no Television he is a-thing where you push a button & stay home from the Movies & see the Movies. My Uncle Hugh says Television is the Family Album with the fridgidaire and my brother-in-law Jake says it will be the end of American Love.

"American Love is bad enuff already," says Jake. "You go around to the Stage Door after a movie, and when the leadin' lady comes out, she's a cute as all fun."

"What will she be when Television begins?" I says.

"She will be a sort of a gadgit with vacume tubes," says Jake, "and when she sings how long you won't know if she's got Appeal or Static. You will know her Waive Length, but you won't never get her Telefone Number."

Between I and you, Jake don't know the ½ of it. He married men can't look in a Television thing and get romonce while our Wife is setting there beside us.

What is even worst, we will have them dam Commercials, where you got to look at the Face that goes on the Voice which evybody hates. You got to suffer while the Announcer smiles at you & says "Ladys and gents, this chorus girls song is coming to you thru the curtesy of Sizzel-Fizz Headache Powders. Like you can see, I am now droppin a Sizzel-Fizz in this glass of water, and purty soon my head will feal like nothing at all."

We will have to watch television actors zupping soup on the air, and without we get Television and Taste-ovision, so they can hindulge you a dinner, you will still be just as hungry when they Smile Off.

Worst of all, our children will be under foot all the time watching the Television Set in their own home, instead of going at the Movies where they belong.

In fact, I only get one good word for Television. It will be another of them Electric things where Science can yell & grin at us 24 hours per day, and even if we don't like it, we will be saved from ever having 5 minuits to ourself, where there isn't nothin to do but just Set and Think.

Today's Text: "A man's heart deviseth his way, but the Lord directeth his steps."—Proverbs 16:9. Suggested by the Rev. E. W. Anderson, Church of the Good Shepherd, Watertown.
